HOOVER'S FIRST MOVE SURPRISES

NEW RULER OF JAPAN FORMALLY TAKES OFFICE

EVEN COOLIDGE, AS DEMOCRAT, WOULD LOSE SAYS WILL

(Special To The News)

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—When the editorial writers get all through analyzing all the various reasons for Smith's defeat, religion, prohibition, Tammany, brown hats, prosperity, wisecracks, Raskobs and all the rest of them, maybe one of them will accidentally hit on the real reason—a Democrat.

Hoover would have beat Coolidge, if Coolidge had been running on the Democratic ticket.

While in Northampton, Mass., the other day to vote, Mr. Coolidge found a house that rented for $32 a month, and took it. He is not only a president, but a detective.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

New Castle experienced quite a wintry snow storm early this morning. The snow stuck to grassy plots and roofs, but melted as it hit the streets. It was sufficient to make rather skiddy conditions for autos on the streets, however.

New Castle high school band boys got away in their flashy new uniforms this morning. The boys were enroute to Greensburg, where they will play at the New Castle high school Greensburg game this afternoon. It was the inauguration for the new uniforms.

Tomorrow is Armistice day and will be quietly observed in New Castle. On Monday New Castle veterans will take part in the tri-county celebrations at Sharon and in the Beaver valley.

To be seeing one's first snowfall is quite a distinction for any young lady, but when the young lady has lived for 20 or more years and yet viewed her first snow this morning, it is quite out of the ordinary. So this morning Pa Newc greets the young lady, who until now has made her home in Florida, and asks her what she thinks about it.

The sign on the Better Sire Special train which was here Friday attracted quite a bit of 100 per cent American attention and many a tummy chuckle. "The most expensive sire in the world—electrically and radio equipped". It turned out to be a scrub sire and an electrical phonograph which spoke for the sire. Their trick of running half dollars into a cows mouth via an endless chain and dollar bills pouring into the milk bucket was clever.

Rumor hath it that there is an attempt being made to start a book for New Castle which will be mailed to all those who make requests about Pennsylvania at large from other states and one that will be on hand to mail out when we make application for a convention or meeting of some sort. It is a noble thought, thinks Pa Newc.

Plans are complete at the public library to observe national book week which is an honest to goodness week in book circles. They have arranged a display of children's books for adults and if you have some youngsters on the string for presents along about Santa time, why go over and look over the books. They are not for sale but you will get an idea of what is the best and what to buy.

Almost any of these wet and slippery mornings, one can see motorists coming down any of New Castle's numerous hills at a speed that is dangerous to the life and limb not only of the autoist, but of all the people in his immediate vicinity. These wet mornings motorists should remember that car tracks are slippery, and skidding is easy. Perhaps if the 20 mile speed limit were stringently enforced, the danger would not be so great.

By latest advices from the Big City, reporters have been designated as "newsrats". Ho hum . . . . Pa Newc wonders how many "smart guys" could be newsrats.

Hotels have queer names. But perhaps the queerest was noted by Pa Newc in a little Center county village this summer. It is called the St. Elmo, and, the natives solemnly declare, was named after the famous

New Emperor Will Advance Welfare Of His 60,000,000 People

By JAMES R. YOUNG

KYOTO, Japan, Nov. 10.—With picturesque and impressive ceremonies, that date back more than twenty-five centuries, when the first Japanese sovereign assumed his imperial regalia, Emperor Hirohito, the 124th Mikado of Japan, formally ascended the throne today. From a mortal he becomes the "Son of Heaven."

This was a day of jubilation and celebration throughout the Empire of the Rising Sun. Special services were held in the Shinto temples, processions paraded in the cities, schools, factories and government offices were closed, fireworks flamed in the sky while artillery thundered the imperial salute.

Thousands Choke Town

Hundreds of thousands of Japanese and foreigners had come to Kyoto. Although only a few dignitaries, priests, high government officials and

Governor Smith Will Broadcast His "Swan Song"

To Make Political Speech Over Radio Hook-Up On Tuesday Night

DEMOCRATS LOOK TO PARTY'S FUTURE

New Leadership Is Certain; Several Likely Men Are Considered

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The memorable campaign of 1928 has ended, but the forward looking leaders of the Democratic party, including Governor Alfred E. Smith himself, are already looking toward 1932.

Not that Governor Smith intends to or would consent to, again being a candidate. He said he never again would stand for public office. Governor Smith is a very determined man, once he makes up his mind, as was proved on innumerable occasions during the campaign. His friends know that he meant it when he said he was through with running for public office.

Up To Governor Smith.

But Governor Smith is titular leader of the party, and will remain so until he voluntarily relinquishes that leadership, or until the party in convention assembled chooses his successor, which won't be until 1932.

It is as leader of his party, therefore, that the defeated governor will address an appeal to the Democrats of the nation next Tuesday night to forget the bitterness and recrimination of the election just ended, and to join together in forward-looking, constructive party endeavor. He will speak over a national radio hook-up.

While the subject of Governor Smith's address had not been announced it is understood by his friends that, generally speaking, it is to be "Al Smith's Swan Song" politically.

Record In Defeat.

More than fifteen millions of voters cast their ballots for him last Tuesday. That is an all-time record for a defeated candidate. There is real gratitude in Governor Smith's heart

PEACE—DREAMS

"I Wonder Where My Buddies Are Tonight?"

Ten Years Ago Tomorrow Armistice Ended World War

Ten years ago tomorrow morning a miracle happened in France. The war dogs ceased their growling, the rattle of rifles gave way to the cheers of Khaki clad boys, the deep throated engines of war quieted, and the world saw surcease from the most horrible war of all time.

It was the Armistice!

An armistice that brought peace to 59,000,000 service men and women, an armistice that brought the light of reason to the darkness of war madness, an armistice that ended the fighting that had been going on since the middle of the summer of 1914.

Long and Short Decade

It is just ten years since that miracle happened and yet it seems longer and shorter. One can hardly credit that ten years have passed since that memorable day when Marshal Foch received the German delegation aboard his special car. One can hardly credit that ten full years have passed since the newsboys cried the peace extras in the streets. One can hardly credit the flight of ten years since the American boys changed from Kaiser Hunters to Souvenir Hunters and yet the decade has passed.

Boys of 22 who stood out on the front line of that Wetsern Front are now men of judgment, married, with families, many of them with responsibilities in industry, commerce and government.

Here in New Castle they have taken up the slack of their year or two experience of the war and made better citizens because of that experience.

Where Were They?

As you walk down the street today and see the fellows who fought the good fight, try and imagine where they were ten years ago tomorrow. Some of them were up before Metz, waiting for the word to advance on that German town.

Some of them were down in Italy where the Austrians had already quit. Some of them were in England, others in camps in this country scattered from Camp Devon to Camp Fremont, still others were on "battle wagons" in the Atlantic, the Pacific, or sweeping mines in the North Sea.

For the most of the lads who went

Celebration At Bridge Opening Being Planned

Wampum And Chewton Preparing For Big Day At Opening Of New Bridge

INVITATIONS FOR OFFICIALS ISSUED

Parade Over New Bridge Likely To Be One Of Features

Wampum and Chewton are planning a big celebration upon the completion of the new county bridge. It will likely be held in about two weeks, although no date has been actually set.

At a meeting of Wampum council it was decided to invite county and city officials, also officials of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad.

It is planned to have a brass band, speeches and likely a parade across the bridge. Workmen are now putting the finishing touches on the bridge. The street leading to it from Wampum avenue is about ready to be thrown open.

The bridge and viaduct, which will cost over $300,000, is one of the longest and finest in the county. It was started last January and good progress has been made during the summer.

The bridge spans the tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad Companies. Also the Beaver river. It will eliminate dangerous grade crossings, thus making the road much safer for travel.

South America Will Be Visited By Hoover Soon

President-Elect To Make Good Will Tour Of Southern Countries

NEW PROBLEM TO CONFRONT NATIONS

Status Of Hoover On His Trip Is Puzzle To All Diplomats

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 10.—The path of President-Elect Herbert Hoover to the White House stretches today over the swamps of the Pampas, through ten thousand miles of tropical seas and mountain jungles to historic Pennsylvania avenue.

If plans announced in Washington by President Coolidge are carried out, the President-elect will steam out of San Diego harbor in a week or ten days aboard the battleship Maryland, one of the newest, fastest and most formidable of Uncle Sam's man o' wars, for a history-making good will mission through South America.

Gone Several Weeks

The trip will require from 40 to 60 days, depending upon the final itinerary now being negotiated with the various Latin-American embassies and legations in Washington by Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg.

Tentative plans call for a direct run from California's coast to the Panama Canal Zone. Leaving the Maryland at Balboa, the Hoover party may go through to the Atlantic seaboard either by train or aboard a small government craft. Returning to the Pacific coast, Hoover will resume his journey on the Maryland to Valparaiso, Chile.

To Stop at Capitals

On his long rail journey across the South American continent he will probably stop at Santiago, the Chilean capital, Lima, the capital of Peru, and then strike out directly over the Andes and accross the Amazon to Montevideo and Buenos Aires. On the east coast of South America an-

Rothstein's Will Gives Immense Bequest To Former Follies Beauty

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—A new name—that of Miss Inez Norton, a petite, blonde, ex-Follies beauty, formerly of Jacksonville, Fla.—popped into the newspaper headlines today as the police resumed their investigation of the murder of Arnold Rothstein, nationally known gambler, who was mysteriously shot in room 349 of the Park Central hotel last Sunday night.

Will is Changed.

Rothstein's will, changed by him on his death bed in Polyclinic hospital, provided for Miss Norton to the extent of $1,500,000. One-sixth of the income of his fortune is to go to her for a period of ten years. Under the old will, Mrs. Caroline Rothstein, the slain man's wife, was to have received, it is understood, the share that has been set aside for Miss Norton.

Under the new will, which will be filed late today or Monday, Mrs. Rothstein will receive the income from one-third of the estate for life.

Miss Norton, 25, and a divorcee, was interviewed today in her home at the Hotel Fairfield, part of Rothstein's extensive properties, where she lies ill. She said she never knew of Rothstein's gambling connections, as he had hidden that side of his life from

Solicitation Of Convention Funds Will Start Monday

American Legion Convention Committee To Extend Invitation To Legionnaires

NEED FUNDS TO FINANCE PROJECT

At the meeting of the special convention committee of the American Legion which met Friday evening in the Legion home on North Jefferson street, details of the organization were completed and the solicitation of funds sufficient to finance the 1929 State Legion convention for New Castle will begin Monday morning and continue next week.

This special committee of business men and legionnaires, composed of Phil G. Greer, chairman, James W. Cole, Herbert Peairs, John Slack, Ivor Davis, Harry Long, Guy Wadlinger, Ed. Russell, John Kennedy, Wilbur McCullough and W. E. Ferver, in addition to numerous other business men, are of the opinion that the convention will mean a great deal financially for this city as well as the honor of entertaining this great convention.

They, with the aid of other business men, will start the drive for funds to finance the convention. According to the statement of the legionnaires, there is little doubt but that New Castle can get this large convention if they extend the invitation.

This committee hope to have the funds raised and to go to Harrisburg, December 1, and extend the invitation to the state executive committee of the Legion at that time.

Various civic bodies, Chamber of Commerce, and business men are cooperating with the Legion in the attempt to get this convention for New Castle in 1929.

stage character of a decade or two ago. The owner also says that this is true, although he refuses to divulge the circumstances under which it was named.

New Castle should do all she can to get the American Legion state convention here next summer. It will be a big event, and besides giving the people of the city a chance to show the visitors just what New Castle is, it is a business booster.

Less than a year ago, Pa Newc ventured to mention the extreme politeness of the male gentry of New Castle, especially at the car stops. Every woman must be on board before the men even thought of crowding in. Of late, this has not been true. Men have become more assertive: and today, it seems, they think more of getting a seat than of being courteous.

From all his rambles into the countryside, Pa Newc fils doubted the existence of much small game in Lawrence county, perhaps because he was used to kicking rabbits out of the underbrush at every step. And yet, two hunters came in Friday with eight rabbits and nine birds. If they had knocked down all that they shot at, they say, they would have had a wagon load. Which proves that all men are fallible.

through the war without injury, the war is just a strenuous memory. But many there are who are still going through the horrors of war. In the hospitals today are men who will never walk again, men who will never be able to take their place in society, men whose straight supple bodies are twisted and bent with the agonies of war. For them the Armistice will never be signed.

Ten years ago today a miracle happened in France. And because of that miracle many a little boy has his daddy today, many a mother still has her son, many a girl got her sweetheart back. For had that drive on Metz gone through, no one can even guess what the casualties might have been.

railway the onward rush slackened in speed. The lava stream was a mile and a half wide at some places.

Nine Persons Killed

At least nine persons, three of them women, have been killed.

While Mascali has been completely destroyed, word from Carrabba district said that not all of the houses in that town had been burned up. Some were still standing.

Santa Venera has been completely destroyed.

The Fascist organization is taking the lead in the relief work. It is reported that Premier Mussolini may come to the scene.

Two separate streams of lava are flowing past Carrabba.

The small towns of Santa Maria and Lastrada are menaced with destruction.

Volcano Rumbles

The devastated district echoes to the rumble and roar from the interior of the volcano. A sound distant thunder rolls over the baked land covered with its thick coating of hardened lava. The heaviest discharge of lava comes from the fissures of the southeastern corner of the crater.

Volleys of stones, lava, steam, smoke and cinders belch from the crater upon the pulsations of the quake-like shocks. There is a fiery Niagara Falls where the stream of red hot lava cascades over the rim of the crater pouring downward amid billows of smoke and fumes.

ROTHSTEIN'S WILL GIVES BIG BEQUEST TO FOLLIES BEAUTY

her. Once a friend a suggested a card game for money and Rothstein, she said, appeared shocked at the idea.

In Love With Each Other.

She said Rothstein gave her a costly diamond ring, a thoroughbred riding horse and provided a tennis court for her atop the Fairfield.

"We loved each other," she said. "He accepted his wife of our mutual esteem. We were engaged and he promised me a honeymoon to the French Rivera."

Miss Norton said "the world may as well know I was madly in love with Arnold Rothstein from the time I met him." It was a mutual attraction she asserted. Now "life seems barren with Arnold gone."

"I met Arnold Rothstein only last year. I was very unhappy until I knew him. We instantly took to each other. At the time I met Arnold I did not know he was married. Three weeks later he confessed that he was, but told me that he and his wife were living apart."

Miss Norton said Rothstein proposed to her after she had bettered his golf score at his private Cedarpoint course at Woodmere, Long Island. He told her, she related, that he would sue for divorce and marry her. Thru Rothstein she "met some of the most celebrated persons in the world of society and affairs." He carefully guarded her from danger and kept from her "all knowledge that he lived a life of risk and adventure."

Numerous Requests.

Rothstein made numerous bequests other than those to his wife and Miss Norton. He willed $50,000 and $60,000 respectively to his brothers Edgar and John, but did not mention his parents, Abraham and Essie Rothstein. It is understood he provided for them for life years ago. One-sixth of Rothstein's estate will go to the three executors, his attorney, Maurice Cantor, Samuel Brown and William Brown. It is said he left $15,000 outright to Thomas Farley, his negro attendant, and provided a trust fund of $75,000 for a friend, Sidney Stazer.

The police meanwhile were trying to solve the mysterious murder. It was said authoritatively that every one of the men who were with Rothstein in room 349 of the Park Central when he was mortally wounded are known. Although the police say 2,000 detectives are engaged in a hunt for the men who were in that room, not a single arrest has been made.

JAPANESE MIKADO FORMALLY ASCENDS THRONE OF NATION

diplomatic representatives of the powers were able to come into proximity to the imperial family.

Cordons of soldiers and police were thrown about the imperial palace while countless imperial standards fluttered overhead.

For the first time since the misty days of antiquity the empress Nagako was formally enthroned with her imperial husband. On the long history of Japan eleven rulers have been empresses in their own right.

Mourned For Year

While Hirohito has been ruler of Japan since the death of the preceding emperor the enthronement rutual was delayed by the year of mourning prescribed by the imperial laws following the death of a mikado. The two main ceremonies of enthronement are the throne ascending rites and the great new food festival.

Gongs and drums, hidden behind a gorgeously embroidered lacquer screen, sounded three times as the signal for the ceremonies to begin. Food was placed upon the altars in the ceremonial room while ancient music was played and the screens before the inner shrines were opened. The chief ritualist read a Shinto prayer. The Emperor, followed by a retinue of princes and high officials, took his place within the shrine. The Empress, attended by princesses, court ladies and officials, took her appointed place. Both worshipped before the altar. Immediately, the Emperor and Empress and other retinue withdrew.

Worship Ancestors

While a many-colored crowd was milling in the courtyard the Emperor and other members of the imperial family were devoting themselves to private rites at the shrines of their ancestors.

During the course of the ceremonies the Emperor proclaimed his intention of advancing the welfare and prosperity of his 60,000,000 subjects.

Standing in the courtyard Baron Tanaka, prime minister, listened to the imperial message and then proceeded to the throne room and delivered a congratulatory message on behalf of the nation.

Especial honors were conferred upon more than 3,200 persons in connection with the enthronement ceremonies. They were invited to a special banquet in this city. Of those honored 170 rescued imperilled persons at the risk of their own lives; 480 distinguished themselves by their industry; 897 rendered meritorious service to the state and 1,889 gave their private property to charity.

Representatives of 27 nations, for the most part ambassadors and ministers regularly stationed at Tokio, came to Kyoto for the enthronement, or coronation, ceremonies. Only 17 representatives were present when the late emperor Taisho was enthroned.

GOVERNOR SMITH WILL BROADCAST HIS "SWAN SONG"

for that vote, and he intends to speak it next Tuesday night.

At the same time, he will admonish his party to look forward to new and constructive endeavor, and not backward at the bitter controversy of the campaign just ended. To look backward, he contends, can lead to nothing except more bitterness and further defeat.

Governor Smith is expected to reassure those Democrats who have been fearful of the party's future, in the face of the most crushing defeat it has ever suffered, by pointing to the enormous popular vote it polled this week. No political party, he will contend, that can enlist the support of more than 15,000,000 American voters can be said to be dead, or even dying.

Look For New Timber.

Already some of the party leaders are beginning to scan the horizon for new timber for 1932. At the moment there are four men whose names figure prominently in this futuristic speculation.

Here in New York there is Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was elected to the governor's chair, despite Hoover's capturing the electoral vote of the state. However, Roosevelt must stand for re-election in 1930 before he can be seriously figured as a possibility. A defeat two years from now, after one term as governor, might well eliminate him. There is also the question of his health to be considered.

Further down the Atlantic seaboard is Governor Albert C. Ritchie, the four-time governor of Maryland, whose admiration for Governor Smith led him to eliminate himself in this year's race. Ritchie is Southern-born, is Wet, but also Protestant. His candidacy might throw some interesting light on the question of whether the South bolted Al Smith because of his Wetness or because of his Catholicism.

Still further south there is Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, ex-jurist, Dry, and also Protestant. The Georgia senator has come to be regarded as one of the real leaders of Southern political thought. Probably more than any other single individual, he kept Georgia in line for Smith in the campaign just ended.

Then there is the aggressive young governor of Texas, Dan Moody. Since the abdication of William G. McAdoo as leader of the dry wing of the party, Moody has appeared as his probable successor. It was only the inevitability of Governor Smith's nomination at Houston, and Governor Moody's own youth, that kept his friends from starting the ball rolling for him this year.

other battleship will pick him up to carry him northward, with one or two stops in Central America or Cuba.

This would get the President-elect back in Washington about January 10, if the best possible schedule is achieved, or as late as February 1, under less favorable conditions of travel.

Definite announcement of the itinerary is expected Monday in Washington, or at Mr. Hoover's home here.

Announcement Surprise

The White House announcement that Mr. Hoover would take the trip was a surprise to those who anticipated that Hoover would spend most of his time between now and inauguration in resting and preparing himself for the extra session of Congress promised early in the new administration.

A troublesome question in international usage arises in connection with Mr. Hoover's status as a representative of the United States in his visit to South America. Unless he is formally presented through State Department arrangements as the official representative of the United States government, he goes as a private citizen.

President Coolidge has not indicated that he is sending the President-elect to South America. On the contrary, the White House announcement suggested that Mr. Hoover had planned the trip on his own initiative. The arrival of a President-elect at foreign ports, without a special diplomatic commission, and aboard a first-line warship, presents a problem perhaps without precedent in international law.

Discuss Trip

Washington, Nov. 10.—President Coolidge today discussed with Secretary Wilbur the projected trip of President-Elect Hoover to South America on the battleship Maryland.

In response to a summons from the President, Secretary Wilbur made an early visit to the White House and went over plans for the trip on the Maryland in the event Hoover definitely decides to go. Wilbur would not discuss the details of his talk with the President.

Aimee McPherson Case In Limelight

Indictments Recently Returned Against Asa Keyes Revive Probe

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 10.—The Aimee Semple McPherson case was again in the limelight today, the indirect result of indictments recently returned against Asa Keyes, Los Angeles county district attorney, who was charged by the grand jury of "willful misconduct in office" in connection with the collapse of the Julian Petroleum corporation trial.

Keyes and seven other defendants are scheduled to make their pleas here next Tusday.

Meanwhile, the grand jury has started an investigation of other cases handled by the district attorney, the most notable of which is the McPherson case.

The evangelist and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, were charged with obstructing justice after Mrs. McPherson's mysterious disappearance two years ago. She subsequently reappeared and said she had been kidnaped and spirited into Mexico, whence she escaped from her captors. The charges were dropped by Keyes on the ground of insufficient evidence.

Among the witness who are expected to be summoned before the grand jury are Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Seilaff, who was known as the "Miss X" in the McPherson case. Mrs. McPherson is now touring Europe and will not return for several months.

SUICIDE VICTIM IS FOUND IN CEMETEY

SHARON, Pa., Nov. 10.—Fred Z. Neal, 272 Spruce street, was found dead on the grave of his mother-in-law in St. Mary's cemetery. He had committed suicide with a .38-calibre revolver, according to County Coroner William McGrath, who took charge of the body. Despondency is believed to have led him to take his own life. He formerly was a foreman of linemen for the Pennsylvania Power company, but lost his position in a strike a few years ago. Since then he had not found steady employment. He leaves his wife and several children.

Spectacular Play Coming

"The Wedding March" To Be Presented At Penn All Next Week

SPARKLES WITH COLORFUL SCENES

What is believed by New York Film critics and press of all the Metropolitan cities to be one of the most pretentious screen products of the season will be offered to the patrons of the Penn Theatre all next week, when Erich Von Stroheim's production, "The Wedding March", will be shown.

"The Wedding March" has broken more house records and excited more praise than any picture in the last several years.

Some of the most colorful scenes on the screen are produced and the added fact that many of them have been reproduced in technicolor, insures that theatre-goers will see them in all the gorgeousness of the original.

The cast headed by Erich Von Stroheim himself, includes Fay Wray, Zasu Pitts and other notable screen stars.

Erich Von Stroheim, the man you love to hate but can't, plays the part as the dashing, reckless, woman-chasing scion of aristocratic Vienna. A well-groomed, handsome parade-soldier. A man with scores of sweethearts, continually in and out of affairs. A Don Juan to whom a pretty girl is simply the stake in a new game.

Remember that you'll see it here exactly as New York sees it today. The only difference is the price as New York is now paying $1.50, while New Castle patrons of the Penn Theatre will see it for only 50c. Special musical road score, both afternoon and evenings, under the direction of Mr. Judy Sypher.

On the stage an excellent presentation has been secured at a big expense. "The Happy Lawsons," your record and radio pals, in comedy, singing and talking without any limit.

AFTER TEN YEARS

HOSTILITIES in the World War ended ten years ago, but peace with its beneficent influence did not follow at once. The high expectations which the signing of the armistice aroused were destined to be delayed in fulfillment. In all its hideous features the war was launched suddenly. Agreement to stop fighting when the enemy could fight no longer was found to be one thing, while settlement of the multiple issues growing out of the conflict was a different matter. Ending the human slaughter was found to be far short of restoring the lately embattled nations to a state of repose. The process has been under way for ten years and the end is not yet. There is encouragement, however.

As we observe this tenth anniversary of the armistice there is more reason for confidence in the future than in any previous observance of the event. Among the vanquished there is manifest a more pronounced disposition to accept the verdict of arms. Among the victors there is less disposition to demand the fulfillment of impracticable conditions. There has been peace but it has been a resisted peace. Europe now seems moving toward an agreed peace, a peace which all nations welcome, and that is the only stable peace. There seem to be tangible grounds for rejoicing.

MORE WOMEN MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE

THERE will be seven women members in the next House of Representatives. The four who sit in the present house have all been re-elected. To their number is now added Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen and Mrs. Ruth Baker Pratt.

It is a circumstance worthy of note that three of the members of this house are widows of former representatives and that two of the new members have a political ancestry—the daughter of Mark Hanna and the daughter of William Jennings Bryan. It has been said that the women who succeed their husbands had a fictitious advantage, and that their election offered no clear demonstration that the possession by women of the vote was an assurance that they would achieve political office in any large numbers. This may have been true hitherto to the extent that sex played a smaller part than was expected in the woman vote. But it is reasonably clear that hereafter, in this country, as in England, sex will become less and less a bar to preferment.

The first woman member of the House of Commons, Lady Astor, fell heir to the seat vacated by her husband when he became a peer. Mrs. Philipson also occupies a seat her husband formerly filled, and perhaps the Duchess of Atholl was in part indebted to her husband's position. This seems to be less true of the Countess of Iveagh. The other woman members are more clearly the architects of their own fortunes. English women have had a certain advantage over American in entering political life because for years they have been more interested in politics. Long before they had the vote they went into vigorous campaigning. There is proof at last that American women realize that the possession of the ballot means responsibility for it. One salient feature of the campaign just ended was the rush of women to the polls.

This is as it should be. A right is also a duty. The better the women understand their political power the more eager they will be to exercise it. The ultimate effect on American public life must still be a matter of speculation.

One reason why all the world loves a lover is because he doesn't count his change.

As a rule, Americans agree on almost everything else if they agree on bedtime.

The best place for the uplift to begin is with the foot that is on the accelerator.

If only people could be good without becoming so vocal in the matter of comparisons.

The crux of the parking problem seems to be that thus far science has succeeded in discovering only three dimensions.

Today

Children as Teachers.

No Black Republic.

No Socratic Methods.

That Noble Experiment.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

Dr. O'Shea, superintendent of public schools in New York, wisely emphasizes the importance of making children of foreign born parents home teachers. In 41 public schools children will receive a series of 10 leaflets for teaching English to parents.

An excellent idea, and as old as divine wisdom. Children have taught their parents from the beginning. The helpless child, filling the mother with tenderness, has educated the father through the mother, gradually abolishing cannibalism, slavery and serfdom, and will abolish poverty eventually.

Philanthropy had its origin in the love and influence of children. Lady Godiva riding naked through the streets to lighten the poor people's tax burden, and the old male gorilla, club in hand, at the foot of the tree, keeping climbing leopards and snakes from his wife and small baby in the upper branches, show the influences of children on parents.

Read about that gorilla in Drummond's "The Greatest Thing in the World" or his "Ascent of Man." The books are not at hand where this is written. The greatest thing is love, and through love children educate their parents.

The British allege Russia is "planting new-fangled ideas in the minds of South African natives," trying to establish a black republic in Southern Africa on Communist lines.

That was tried, with encouragement from this country, in Liberia, but did not work.

South African natives will not have the slightest understanding of bolshevist talk. Communism might as well talk of establishing a reproduction of Oxford or Cambridge at the edge of the Congo. To create a Republican you must have the materials of which republics are made.

We are having trouble enough with our experiment here, our nearest approach to Republican government thus far being a benevolent rule by plutocracy.

William McAndrew, who was superintendent of Chicago schools, leaves for Athens to spend a year studying Socrates' methods of teaching. His plan, may heaven thwart it, is to revive the Socrates method in modern schools.

Socrates, if Plato describes his method accurately, touched a new peak in boredom. Instead of saying what he had to say, he went around Robin Hood's barn with questions and answers tiresome beyond measure.

Whether or not Socrates was guilty as alleged, of filling young Greeks with disrespect for the gods, and in spite of the marvelously heroic hemlock drinking episode, you can hardly blame the Athenians for getting rid of him.

What modern education needs is moving pictures, with condensed verbal elucidation, not Socratic dialogues.

Leaders of prohibition say election means "utter repudiation by the people of all proposals modifying the Volstead act, or in any way interfering with prohibition as it is.'

Prohibition leaders ignore one feature of the campaign which need not be revived here.

They should not forget that Gov. Smith got twice as many votes as any Democratic candidate ever got. There may be some prohibition meaning to that.

Herbert Hoover did not proclaim himself at any time a convert to prohibition as it is. He called it "a noble experiment, meaning, presumably, it is on trial. He would not call government by the people "a noble experiment, because he believes it is an approved and permanent success.

However, the Volstead act will not be changed or the Eighteenth amendment either, for many a year.

Meanwhile, those foolish enough to drink bootleg alcohol will lose the lin-

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 4:47. Sun rises tomorrow 6:43.

The critics who say "America cannot enjoy leisure" should see us when the boss goes out.

If the people who are being constantly knocked and criticized did not do more for the other fellow and humanity in general than the knockers do this sure would be a fierce world.

Mr. Hints and Dints Man:
Mrs. Edward C. Sanderson of the Mahoning road, a real Republican lady was showing the world or at least the part of it where she resides that she won her vote and that Mr. Hoover was elected, for she had a fine new American flag on a great high flag pole on her lawn Wednesday morning quite early. ADMIRER.

In Mexico when a murder trial is on the jury can resign any time during the trial. A jury quit there recently because threats to murder it was sent to the court house. That was a fairly good reason for a jury quitting in Mexico. They seldom give any warning there when they feel like shooting.

Most every day we hear some one say something like this. "He is a good chap and a fine citizen and does much good, but I don't like him!" Some yaps hear that and then go tell the man it is said about. That makes him enthusiastic to do more of course. Why can't people keep their traps shut.

...le in a haystack offers difficulties, but it isn't hard to find a bit of thread in the breakfast food.

When a voter who cannot read goes to the polls he or she can ask for assistance. This means some political rooster takes that person into the booth and marks the ballot for them. This would be all right if that was all there was to it. We often hear of the birds who mark ballots telling about it and using it as an argument to get money to vote for a candidate for office just because they can mark the ballots in favor of the candidate they work for. This is positively not a good thing, but it is being practiced and blowed about right here in New Castle. There are people who just must get money out of politics and they get it in any dishonest way they can get it in. Time to call a halt.

Alfred is rejected.
Herbert is elected.
Climbing up the White House stairs,
There'll be music in the air
When Herbert takes the chair,
Climbing up the White House stairs.

Then keep those bells aringing,
The Dems are on the run.
We hear them votes all saying
"Ole Tammany's on the run."

When President Coolidge and his wife and Mr. Hoover and his wife went to the polls to vote on election day there was no great demonstration at either place, but when Gov. Smith and his wife went to the polls to vote it took a squad of police to keep the crowd back. This shows that emotional enthusiasm does not count for a very great deal at times.

There were not enough electoral votes to divide them up more evenly between the two presidential candidates. Hoover got nearly all of them.

We heard a bird say yesterday that he would give nothing to nothing and in the next breath complained because there were not more industries in New Castle. His first explosion was the answer to his complaint.

Up until yesterday twelve persons had been killed in hunting accidents in Pennsylvania and seventy-one hunters had been wounded by gunshot wounds since the opening of the season. Is it worth it?

Being elected president of the United States must be a great thrill. We don't think we could stand it ourselves. We will have to depend upon appointments as that is the only way unpopular people get office and then they have to have a lot of gall.

Dear Hints and Dints Man: Here is something interesting out in Union township. Tuesday evening a good Republican lady of course we won't tell her name. Well she became discouraged on those first few returns and started to bet extravagently on the Dem side with one Republican lady. She bet 10 cents on Smith. The bet was 50c to 10c and with a good Republican gentleman she bet 10 cents more on Smith. This bet was 25 cents to 10 cents. Now to date she hasn't paid her bets off and unless she does so soon we will tell you her name and you can publish it, honest we will. REFEREE.

A Colored man was elected to congress from Chicago. This is the first of his race to be elected in this country in over twenty-five years. In some respects this country is growing more democratic every year.

One of the planks in the Democratic platform was too wet and slippery for the voters to cross on.

Kraut and fish always taste better than they smell while being cooked. We are glad they do not cook kraut all summer in this neighborhood.

A man elected to the legislature in Philadelphia received the news and returns of the election in jail where he has been sentenced for the next five years. Being in the legislature and in jail are about the same thing—being about an equal amount of honor in each. The fact that this bird is in jail is proof of that.

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

WHAT IS GOVERNMENT?

We have a careless way of thinking that the government is one thing and the people are another. We think of the government as standing at one side ready to enforce something or other on the people—even against the people's will. Of course the government and the people are one and the same thing. The reason we do not have prohibition in this country instead of merely a large amount of TALK about prohibition is that not enough people want the enforcement of prohibition. The government—which is the people—cannot enforce upon the people what the people do not want.

"ENFORCEMENT"

Please note that in the above paragraph the thing referred to is not "prohibition" but the "enforcement of prohibition." It is very probable that most of the people actually do want prohibition. They have voted in favor of it and they would doubtless do so again in practically every state in the union. But it is also apparently true that they do not want it enforced to the degree that would make it impossible for them to have a drink quietly on the side.

The well-to-do want it enforced on the poor and the poor are perfectly willing to have it enforced on the well-to-do. A great number of people—perhaps the greater number—believe prohibition is a splendid idea, always deserving of their vote. But enforcement—that is another matter.

THE MOUNTAINEER

One can understand the perplexity of the mountain man in the south. He can not understand why he can not turn his corn into liquor as properly as he can turn it into meal. It is his corn, and he is willing to do it quietly and unobtrusively. He is further perplexed when he finds himself in prison looking through barred windows at his free and respectable breathren who bought the product of his corn.

It is a strange situation wherein the seller goes to jail, while the buyer merely turns to another market.

CHECKING UP

Now that election is over we will do well to look back over some of the things we have believed and some of the things we have said. After a time of abnormal excitement and distorted opinions it is proper to check up on ourselves and try to recall just how we acted and what we said. All with a view to not being quite so absurd in the next campaign.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

WAR DEBTS

When government interferes with business there is usually trouble ahead. In deed it sometimes looks as if the prime concern of government was to make trouble.

It requires visas and passports for those visiting other countries when no limitation should be made upon travelers. Travel is about the most sensible form of advertising and has the most broadening effect. It would be a good thing if all the inhabitants of the United State were to go abroad a few days in every year. It would increase their intelligent patriotism, perhaps, and decrease their septic chauvinism.

Quite a number of economic thinkers disapprove of tariffs although tariff seems to be a settled policy.

A recent speaker has called attention to the fact that war debts are assentially pestiferous.

They are never paid with pleasure, they are not appreciated and they are a fruitful cause of bad blood and misunderstanding.

When Will Rogers was in London he humorously hit the nail on the head and put a great deal of common sense into a witticism. He said to the English in a lecture: "I am sorry there is such bad feeling over these war debts. It is hard for you to pay so much money. Now if I had had my way there would have been no trouble. I wouldn't have lent you the money in the first place."

That is about the gist of the conclusion the world is coming to.

It is never good for the people of one generation to be burdened with the debts of a preceding generation and debts to a foreign country. There would be fewer wars if the people of each generation were required to pay their own debts.

War is an expensive business. There are three requisites for a country's success in war. They are, first, gold; second, gold, and third, gold. The country with the longest purse or the longest credit usually comes out ahead.

All this could be figured up before a war as well as after it.

Some way ought to be devised of avoiding in the future a great debt from one government to another. It is doubtful whether a government that owes a million dollars or so to the citizens of another country is better off than one which owes this money to another government.

The best way is to avoid wars and attend to business and pay your debts as you go along.

THEIR MA'S AWAY

Their Ma's away and I
Two places must supply.
Mother and Dad, and oh,
So much I do not know!
How much of chocolate stuff
Presisely is enough?

A troubled life is mine.
Is bedtime eight or nine?
May she have extra meat
If spinach she won't eat?
Is she allowed to take
The icing from the cake?

Their Ma's away and so
Mine is the "yes" or "no."
I was instructed what
I could do and could not,
But plainly it appears
She rules me with her tears.

Would I were mother-wise!
Problems each day arise
At which I blindly guess.
What of her party dress?
May she wear that to school?
Is it against the rule?

Speed, swiftly rolling train,
Bringing her home again.
Lovely although they be
They are too much for me.
I'm just their Dad, and oh,
They need their mother so!

ARMISTICE DAY

By FRANKLYN BLANNING

Armistice Day!
Remember the glow, the thrill of it—
The sorrow, the bliss, the pain of it!
At last the dreadful guns were still,
Blood ceased to flow in Hate's grim mill,
And as the happy news was spread
All nations wept for hero dead.
Wild bells rang out! Shrill whistles blew!
Our faith in God we did renew.

Armistice Day!
More joy the sad world could not hold;
Young was the face that had grown old.
Bereaved ones sought the quiet places
To hide from others grief's sad traces.
From the sloughs of rain and mud,
From the trenches red with blood,
Our men came home with banners streaming—
A nation's eyes with pride were gleaming.
The weary, careworn mouths were kissed,
Phantoms were there of those we missed.

Armistice Day!
There were the wounded unreclaimed,
There were the minds which killing mained;
There were the men who had much to give
Drained of their strength by the war god's sieve.
Clean-climbed boys with songs in their throats,
Mute forever their golden notes:
There were the men who went inspired.
They came back with souls so tired.
Each one gave of the best he had,
Not again should the world go mad.
"You won the war that war should end;
Sweet peace will be your dividend."
May all men keep the promise new
They made the day the whistles blew.

Armistice Day!
Hold up the mirror of wartime
That man toward peace may ever climb.
Confute forever cries of war,
Bolt the lock on murder's door.
Let not the memory turn to rust,
Forget not those who kept the trust.
Men who conquered every fear
Cannot erase war's bloody smear.
"Killed in action" recounts the cost
Of manhood in hell's holocaust,
Recalling, though the years have flown,
When earth gave out an anguished moan.
Bravery never should mean death,
There's greater need for noble breath.
Nations are pawn for hell's high play
When greed and might begin to slay.

Benefit Card Party On Friday

Large Crowd Attends E. And A. Division Benefit Event

Over 100 persons, members of the Women's Aid of the E. & A. division of the Pennsylvania railroad and their friends, were present and enjoyed the successful benefit card party staged by the organization at the Carnegie auditorium Friday night. Proceeds of the affair will go to aid in the welfare of families of division employes.

Through the kind generosity of local officials of the Carnegie Steel company, the organization was permitted to use the company's spacious South Jefferson street hall for the occasion. This in itself contributed immensely to the fine outcome of the card affair, for the service and decorations about the hall were splendid.

The stage of the auditorium was beautifully decorated with ferns and flowers. Music for the evening was generously furnished by Nancarrow's Pennsylvanians, a ten piece orchestra under the direction of Thomas Flanigan. Five hundred, auction bridge and euchre were played throughout the evening and prizes were given to the high scoring participants.

The committee in charge of arrangements is deserving of exceeding praise for their accomplishment of last night. Their work was continuous and tiresome. Mrs. Raymond Swenk, as general chairman of the evening, directed the work of her committees in a commendable fashion. With her in the work were Mrs. J. G. Hartley, Mrs. F. J. Perry, Mrs. H. L. Nancarrow, Mrs. T. L. Bailey, Mrs. E. A. Fenton, Mrs. J. C. Hanrahan, Mrs. W. E. Gastinger, Mrs. H. W. Burkley and Miss Emily C. Rice.

Proceeds from the affair will go into the fund of the women's organization and from there be expended in needy cases of E. & A. division families. The money will also go to create joy among needy families of the division on Christmas day.

Business Has Outgrown Election Year Slump Experts Now Believe

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The election year bogie was kicked out of the American business picture this year.

For the first time in many national campaigns the country escaped the slump in business and recessions due to the uncertainties of the next administration, judging from reports available today at the federal reserve board, treasury and commerce departments.

Business Going Well.

In many lines of business and industry, production and trade will exceed the high records set in 1926, and in virtually all field figures will be more impressive than those of 1927, which was marked by a recession in the closing months of the year.

Experts expressed the opinion that American business has outgrown the usual election year slump. Even as late as 1924, when the election virtually was conceded to President Coolidge with a continuation of existing policies, there was a dip in the business line. The commerce department year book said:

"During the summer of 1924 there had been a temporary recession of modest proportions in the activity of business so that the volume of production and domestic trade for the year was slightly less than in 1923."

In 1928, however, business began to "pick up" early in the spring, following the slump that occurred late in 1927. Conditions improved rapidly with the resumption of activity of the Ford Motor company, marked with a big increase in the demand for steel, rubber, leather and many other products. Heavy building construction likewise boosted the demand for a wide range of commodities.

See Big Year Ahead.

Officials said that in contrast to the 1927 late-year depression, business has grown stronger during the fall and is expected to get a stimulant as a result of the election. While the election of Governor Smith would not necessarily have been the signal for a depression, yet Herbert Hoover's prospective advent to the White House and a continuation of policies upon which business has thrived in the last few years, are events which to men like Secretary Mellon foreshadow a record breaking business in 1929.

Mellon's annual report to congress, virtually completed, is expected to show that 1928 has been one of the most prosperous years in American history with a slow improvement even in the agricultural and textile branches. There admittedly is yet much to be done for agriculture. The textile situation is none too good and conditions in the bituminous coal industry, especially in the south, are bad.

Selling Liquor Charge Is Made

Police Arrest Joe Denteno On West Lutton Street After Visit

Joe Denteno, No. 2 West Lutton street, was this morning taken before Alderman Walter T. Hamilton by the police, where he was charged with possessing and selling liquor.

Officers of the police force were on a tour of investigation last night near the home of Denteno, when they came upon a man, who dropped a pint bottle of liquor, smashing it, as he saw them.

He was directed to return to the place where he secured it, being provided with a piece of marked paper money. He went to the Denteno home.

The officers then happened in on the place and found the man sent in with a pint bottle half filled with liquor. The arrest of Dentene followed.

Carries Flashlight In Broad Daylight

Blinded evidently by the liquor which he had been drinking and which had put him in an intoxicated condition, Charles Estidy was wandering around with a lighted flashlight in his hand when arrested yesterday by Officer Frank Reynolds. This morning he did not remember of having the flashlight. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $3 or spend five days in the county jail.

ing of their kidneys, and otherwise, prosperity will continue.

"Ruth, amid the alien corn," would be interested in three other Ruths, all in American politics. Three women were elected to Congress last Tuesday, and all three are named Ruth. Ruth McCormick, daughter of the able Mark Hanna, in Illinois; Ruth Bryan, in Florida; Ruth Pratt, in New York. All three possess intelligence and ability well above the congressional average.

If you believe in omens, name your next daughter Ruth.

Roy W. Howard and F. G. Bonfils, owners of the only two remaining newspapers in Denver, finally realized the wisdom of a saying attributed to the late Joseph Pulitzer. "Don't fight, advertise." While Dana and others tried to make him fight, Pulitzer went ahead, building up his newspaper. And Dana's newspaper exists no longer.

Bonfils, real boss of his neighborhood, killed his morning paper and Howard killed his evening paper, one taking the morning, the other the evening field.

They will make more money, produce better newspapers and merchants will reach all the people more economically.

FEWER and BETTER newspapers, is the modern trend.

Gov. Smith announces he will never again be a candidate for office. He has been in politics for 25 years, received last Tuesday the biggest vote, numerically, ever given to any Democratic candidate for president, and is content to retire.

Franklin D. Roosevelt's election in New York, where he ran ahead of Hoover and the popular Governor Smith, would seem to indicate a Roosevelt nomination in 1932, if the Democrats decide to hold a convention.

Lady Astor, from Virginia, via the House of Commons, is delighted with the election and begs Mr. Hoover to "stamp alcohol from New York."

It will take the new president a long time to get around to that problem." Other things come first.

Meanwhile, bootleg whisky is rapidly stamping out those foolish enough to drink it. That may comfort Lady Astor. Bootleggers are killing off their customers.

OHIO HUNTERS PAY BIG FINES

Arrested For Hunting In Pennsylvania Without Proper Licenses

Four hunters from Ohio who are alleged to have violated the game laws of Pennsylvania paid a total fine and costs of $276.50, according to Lawrence County Game Protector Frank Johnson, who with Wayne Sines made the arrests in Pulaski and Mahoning townships.

According to Johnson, J. A. Anderson, Canton, Ohio, failed to take out a Pennsylvania hunting license. He hunted through Neshannock township and was arrested in Pulaski township with one rabbit in his possession.

Johnson took Anderson before Alderman O. H. P. Green of this city and the fine and costs totalled $60.50.

Accompanied by Wayne Sines, a deputy game protector, Johnson apprehended J. A. Hall, C. J. Wimer and George Watkins, Youngstown, in Mahoning township. They had three rabbits in their possession and were fined $72 each by Squire Zedaker, New Bedford, according to Johnson.

The three, it is alleged by Johnson, had given assumed names and residences in securing Pennsylvania licenses.

A non-resident's license costs $15 in Pennsylvania and this, according to Johnson is the reason for the four to fail to take out the proper license. However, these men, according to Johnson, have discovered that "rabbits come dear in Pennsylvania."

Evangelist Schmidt To Speak In City

Gets Permit to Speak And Give Away Bibles In Pittsburgh.

Evangelist L. Schmidt of the Castle Hill mission of this city has just returned from Pittsburgh and other points. At Pittsburgh he was accorded the unusual privilege of using the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the old city hall, north side, on November 11 and 12 for the distribution of Bibles in all languages. The only purposes for which this place is available is the Chamber of Commerce and city purposes, but he was given a special permit by the superintendent of buildings at Pittsburgh to use the place for the purpose mentioned. He will distribute Bibles of all languages and also give talks. The fact that he had been accorded this unusual privilege was recorded in extensive notices in all papers of Pittsburgh, including three English papers, the Jewish, Russian, Polish, Hungarian and German papers.

This Notice will inform you my dear reader why there will be no services at The Castle Hill Mission Bible House on Sunday. Notice will be given in this paper when Mr. Schmidt is home again. The evangelist expects to distribute more than one thousand Bibles in many languages in Pittsburgh; he has a check for $500 given by a lady and gentleman for one thousand Bibles. Mr. Schmidt takes up no collections—the meetings are all undenominational, none-sectarian, free to everybody, all seats free, the missionary depends alone on free will offerings. Evangelist Schmidt speaks and conducts services and distributes Bibles in any city or town in any church or hall, wherever invited to do so; by addressing all communications and invitations for meetings and free Bibles in seven hundred and seventy languages. Mr. Schmidt speaks in seven languages and teaches the Bible in fifteen languages. The Castle Hill Mission-Bible House, New Castle, Pa. Bell telephone 2023

Mayor Thompson Will Start Housecleaning

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—A drastic shake-up in the city hall threatened Friday as an aftermath of the political upheaval registered in last Tuesday's general election. Mayor William Hale Thompson, it is understood, will wield the axe.

Thompson will begin, it is said, by ridding the municipal government of any influence State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe might exert through department heads and employes appointed upon Crowe's recommendation.

The fiery state's attorney, whose administration has been probably the most turbulent in the history of Cook county, steps from office December 3, to be succeeded by Judge John A. Swanson, Deneen candidate, who defeated Crowe in the April primaries.

Swanson won the election over Judge William B. Lindsay, Democrat, on a pledge to rid the city and county of the "unholy alliance of crime and politics," the same battlecry which he used in his primary campaign against Crowe.

Hopes to Regain Respect

Mayor Thompson's "clean-up" campaign, it is frankly stated, will be undertaken in the hope of restoring "his honor" to popular favor.

One of the mayor's first acts in the general housecleaning, it was said at the city hall, will be issuance of orders to Commissioner of Police William F. Russell to reorganize the police department.

Mayor Thompson's broom-wielding job will be made somewhat easier if some of his defeated candidates do as expected—resign and step out before the expiration of their terms. One "thorn in the mayor's side", who has promised to save Thompson embarrassment by resigning, is Morris Eller, city collector and defeated candidate for sanitary district trustee. Eller is under indictment in connection with primary day violence, which included the murder of his opponent for 20th ward Republican committeeman.

City May Have Air Mail Connections

Pittsburgh - Washington Route Will Provide Local Service

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington News Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10.—New Castle, in the very near future, may have direct air mail connections with Washington and the air mail line to the South, according to the belief expressed here by members of the Post Office Department.

An organization of Pittsburgh has laid before Post Office Department officials a plan to establish an air mail line between Pittsburgh and Washington, connecting here with the air mail to Miami, and it is understood that the plans are being given favorable attention.

Aviation experts here are of the opinion that such an air line is not only feasible, but is also desirable and that it would prove to be a paying undertaking. They point out that under the present organization of the air mail postal goods intended for the Capital City must necessarily go on a round-about route by way of New York City.

With the establishment of the line between Pittsburgh and Washington New Castle mail could be sent in a few hours by mail to the Capital.

Foreign War Vets Going To Sharon

Tri-County Celebration Of Armistice Day Is Being Planned

Monday, November 12, the tri-county council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will celebrate the tenth anniversary of the signing of the armistice with posts from Butler, New Castle, Youngstown, Erie, Warren and other surrounding cities and towns in attendance.

The celebration will be held in Sharon, where everything is being closed down for the celebration in honor of the boys who have gone west.

Corporal Harry L. McBride post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars would like to see all its members, who can, go and take part, also all ex-service men who would like to celebrate it with them, at the Legion Home, North Jefferson street, at 12:30 o'clock Monday, where there will be busses to take them to Sharon, free of charge.

One of the features of the parade of the celebration will be the Marine club members of Youngstown. There will be 80 of these boys in line, all in the marine uniform.

Every "buddie" of the World war is urged to make the trip and help celebrate the tenth anniversary of the armistice.

Almost 15,000 Boys Take Home Economics

Boys Need Instruction In Home Life Principles, Think Instructors

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington News Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10.—Instruction for boys in home economics is now being taught in the state of Pennsylvania, according to the bureau of education of the Department of the Interior. There are now approximately 15,000 boys of the country taking such courses in high schools, according to the bureau.

"The universal interest in health, keeping fit, longevity of life and fine citizenship has today superseded the false notion held by some people that home economics instruction for the boys will develop them into cooks and seamstresses," the bureau declares.

"Within the past two years a feeling has developed among school superintendents, as well as the laity, that boys need instruction in the fundamental principles underlying successful American home life."

The bureau expresses the belief that training for boys in home economics will aid them in establishing a home after they acquire a family and will make them intelligent consumers of economic goods.

PETER'S ADVENTURES in ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

IBIS KEEPS A SECRET

"'What a happy reunion that was. Not only were Susan's brothers and sisters along, but soon, too, were her father and her mother and her cousins and her aunts.

"'When they found what a fine fellow Susan had chosen for a mate and what a comfortable home she had, they made up their minds to come and live beside her. You see, they had given her up for lost, and now that they had found her they did not intend to let her go again.

"'As these Ibis were very clever birds, in almost no time at all where there had been but one family now there was a village of Straw-Necked Ibis. When all the fathers and the mothers took their children out to feed upon the plains so many were there in the flock that it was impossible to count them. But there was one curious thing about this branch of the Ibis family.'

"'What was it?' asked Cormorant, eagerly.

"'Just this,' answered his companion. 'Every so often it disappears from the plains. One morning there are hundreds and hundreds of them working and playing together and the next night there is not an Ibis to be found anywhere. Nor when they have left, does one come again to this village by the lagoons for many, many seasons.

"'Where they go nobody knows. No Ibis ever has told the secret. But after moons have waxed and waned, once more Grandpa Ibis and Grandma Ibis and all their sons and daughters and their grandchildren and great-grandchildren are seen feeding upon the plains. How they got there no one has ever heard—and no one ever will. Ibis keeps his secret too well.

"SALLY SAW IN THE DISTANCE A CROWD OF BIRDS."

"'I wish I could solve the puzzle, but if nobody ever has, then it's folly for me to try.'

"Let me think a moment,' said Cormorant, thoughtfully, scratching his head. 'You have accounted for three of the brothers who went out into the world to seek their fortunes.

"'White-Coat journeyed into a strange land called Egypt, and because he happened to arrive at the very same time that the waters rose the natives thought he had brought good luck and they named him Sacred Ibis and worshipped him.

"'Scarlet Feathers, the second brother, cared for admiration more than anything else in the world, and he went wherever people would praise him, although he loved White-Coat and stayed with him a great deal of the time.

"'Golden-Collar landed in Australia, where he met his mate, and lived happily ever after.

"'That leaves only Purple-and-Green, the fourth brother. What adventures did he have as he traveled the sky-path to the right?'"

Westminster Students' Dads Hold Galaxy Of Positions

Forty-Seven Parents Are Business Men; Ministers Rank Second

Democratic Array Of Occupations Represents Spirit Of Campus

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 10. —Not so many years ago the choice of a profession for the young man starting out in life was limited almost unbelievably. If means allowed, the young hopeful might look forward to a college career and a fruitful life in the ministry, at medicine, in law or in teaching. If the family purse could not allow for college expenses, the young idea continued to hope, and in the meantime resorted to farming or one of the trades.

While such was the general situation, a survey made at Westminster College to ascertain the occupations of fathers of students indicates that even in such a comparatively small group deviations from this idea are found. Figures point out that the majority of the fathers of Westminster students are men of business, 47 making up this group.

Ministers Second

Running a close second comes the ministry, with a total of 41. Farming claims 31 fathers of the blue and white collegians, most of whom hold forth on good-sized farms in contiguous territory.

Executive positions rank fourth, 28 of the male parents holding such responsible posts. Various business occupations from operating a general store to running a wholesale house, claims 18 fathers. Salesmanship places next with a total of 17. Fourteen fathers are engaged in the practice of law, and 11 male parents are connected with railroads, either as engineers or clerks.

Carpentry and civil engineering share ninth position, 10 being engaged in each occupation. Educational pursuits, ranging from superintendents of schools to country school teachers, claim 10 fathers, while labor in its various phases claims eight. Seven fathers are engaged in each of the following occupations: insurance, electrical engineering, plant and factory superintendency and mechanical work.

Mechanical engineering foremen and clerical positions each have six parents. Five fathers each are claimed by medicine, newspaper publishing and writing, post office work and banking. Four parents of Westminster students are lumber dealers.

Are Democratic

Real estate, plumbing and electrical contracting come next with three each. Those occupations, with but two representatives among the fathers of the college folk, are plant nursery, business, broking, pharmacy, telegraphy, tinwork, accounting, undertaking, blacksmithing, politics and iron molding.

A delightfully heterogeneous array of jobs represented by one parent each are: musician, fireman, theater manager, dairyman, garageman, graduate manager, consulting engineer, auditor, governmental agent, millwright, chiropractor, chemist, truck driver and barber.

Thus with such a democratic array of occupations represented by fathers of Westminster students, it is little wonder that an air of democracy pervades the campus.

Bessemer High To Play Mercer Today

Teams In Important Grid Battle At Mercer This Afternoon

Today at Mercer the undefeated Bessemer high grid team tackles the strong Mercer high eleven. Bessemer, New Wilmington and Union are deadlocked for the class B high school championship in Lawrence county and a defeat for the Bessemer team will probably eliminate them. On the other hand a win for the Mercer eleven will boost the season's record higher.

Both coaches report their teams in tip top shape for the game and both are confident that their aggregation will be on top when the final whistle blows. Both Mercer and Bessemer have been drilling all week for the gruelling battle which is expected to be played in a sea of mud.

The probable lineup for today's game is as follows:

Bessemer		Mercer
Ruehle	L. E.	Williams
Engle	L. T.	Amy
D. McCurdy	L. G.	Sutton
Ulah	C.	Richardson
Davidson	R. G.	McCullough
Cappezuto	R. T.	A. Masson
Mack (c)	R. E.	P. Masson
Shrefler	Q. B.	Montgomery
Grist	L. H.	Rhodes
Aquaro	R. H.	Broadbent
W. McCurdy	F. B.	(c) Stowe

There's always another side. Those who trimmed the prodigal son may have needed the money.

High School Girls Sell Poppies Today

This morning at 7 o'clock 100 high school girls started their poppy selling campaign in the whirl of the falling wet snow and they will continue to sell the little red flowers until tonight.

The lassies seemed not to mind the whirligigs of wet snow that fell and on every corner they stood bravely calling their wears to passersby and resembling little snow men.

The blooms which are being sold by the girls are made by disabled veterans in hospitals and the proceeds are partly to go to the needy among the ex-service men.

The poppy campaigners seemed to be making a success of it, for at noon today practically every one down town carried a little red flower on the lapel of their coat or in some other promiscuous place about their person.

It will be ten years Sunday since the guns and the soldier boys knew that the struggle was over. It has been ten long years since then and now some of the boys are in severe straights and many are totally and permanently disabled.

The purchase of a poppy from one of these girls who are braving the weather today will be to lend a helping hand to the lads who fought for democracy ten years ago.

Talent Is Predominate Among Westminster's Freshmen Co-eds

Results Of Survey Show That Young Women Have Unusual Talent

Complete Year Book Could Be Produced By Members Of Class

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 10.—High school records of freshman co-eds at Westminster college indicate that if they so choose, the freshmen women could independently publish a yearbook, form a complete glee club, produce innumerable plays, supply two basketball squads and a debating team; establish a Sabbath school and a flourishing young people's society.

Questionnaires were recently distributed among the 67 freshmen girls by the Y. W. C. A. of the campus for the purpose of determining pre-college interests in both school and church affairs. Results would seem to indicate that the women of the class of 1932 have unusual ability and initiative.

An erstwhile annual editor of high school days finds among her classmates two associate editors, a literary editor, an art editor, a joke editor and 12 assistant editors. Frosh co-eds with advertising staff experience number one manager and two assistants.

Also Can Sing.

Glee clubs and operettas were favorite activities claiming 20 members Two freshmen girls do vocal solo work, five are pianists, three violinists, one a drummer, while another composed her class song. The number of readers and reciters totals eight.

Dramatically the class is certainly self-sufficient including a playwright, an amateur leading lady, a business manager and 18 former high school actresses.

Are Sportswomen.

Two cheerleaders should find ample material for enthusiasm in 28 former high school basketball players, two-fifths of the women of the class having participated in this port. The class also boasts two former high school debaters.

Seemingly all Sabbath school positions are represented in the activity lists—from a superintendent of the beginners department to pianists, and 16 former officers of young people's societies have joined countless committee chairmen in the college class room.

As far as its co-ed members are concerned at least, the class of 1932 is veritably a melting pot of talent.

THE ELECTORAL VOTE

Mr. George W. Conway,
Editor News.
Dear Sir:—

Our representative form of government calls for the selection of the executive in a truly representative manner. But I believe that in the minds of many the idea exists that an election, or rather the popular vote, of a few days ago represents a selection that is final.

The "vox populi" has been heard, it is true, and it is the final word in every question save one—the selection of the chief executive.

A candidate many receive the highest number of popular votes yet not be chosen president. Just this happened in 1888. Grover Cleveland received 5,540,309 popular votes and Benjamin Harrison received 5,439,853 but Harrison received 233 electoral votes against Cleveland's 168.

And again in the previous presidential election between Hays and Tilden the former received a greater popular vote than Tilden and a greater—but not a majority—electoral vote. In this case it became the duty of the house of representatives to choose the president and the U. S. senate to select the vice president, since the vice president becomes the presiding officer of that body.

I have an interesting book before me on this subject. It is the "American Constitutional Law" by Francis Newton Thorpe. It was my good fortune to know the author and to be intimately associated with him for three pleasant and profitable years.

It is from these pages I receive the following information which may be of interest to your readers:

It seems that for the first 25 years of our nation's history there was no popular voting for presidential electors. The voice of the people being heard through their elected state representatives who "appointed" them. In fact the constitution does not require electors to be chosen directly by the people. In article II, section I over constitutional amendment XII there is not one word about popular voting, the selection of the executive being entirely in the hands of the electors.

They are chosen or appointed within each state in any way provided by that state's legislature.

Each state shall have as many electors as it has U. S. senators and representatives to congress.

No public office holder can be chosen for the position.

The electoral college name suggests a common meeting place and voting. On the contrary the constitution states that the electors shall meet in their respective states on a certain day designated by congress. The result is sealed and sent to the president of the U. S. senate who in the presence of both the U. S. senate and the house opens and counts the votes. The person who receives the majority vote is chosen president. In case of no majority or a tie then from the three highest the house itself selects by ballot the president. The representatives do not vote individually, however, but as states; two-thirds of the states constitutes a quorum and a majority of all the states is necessary to elect.

In the case of the vice president the same procedure is followed out when the electors fail to choose except the selection is made by the senate voting as individual members.

It is interesting to note that the federal constitution recognizes no party lines, in other words an elector is not bound by the constitution to pledge his vote to any party. He casts his vote for whom he will regardless of his party affiliations. That is why it is possible for a candidate to receive the greatest number of popular party votes and not be chosen president by the electoral college.

Respectfully subscribed,
LOUIS C. HANNA.

Speculation Names James Francis Burke Cabinet Possibility

Pittsburgh Man May Be Selected For Secretary Of War Post

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Speculation here today concerning the personnel of the cabinet to be selected by President-Elect Herbert Hoover included James Francis Burke, chief counsel for the Republican National committee, as a possible choice for secretary of war.

Burke, whose home is in Pittsburgh, for several years in congress had been a member of the house military affairs committee. He has been a constant advisor of the president-elect since Hoover's nomination by the Republican party. Burke was in charge of Hoover's personal headquarters here after the latter left for his home in California to vote. Burke's experience on the military affairs committee is said by his friends to have fitted him admirably for the war department host.

Whether he receives the appointment may depend somewhat on the retention of Andrew W. Mellon of Pittsburgh as secretary of the treasury. While President Harding and President Coolidge both raised no objection to having two members of the cabinet from the same city it is not known how Hoover feels on the subject. Generally, it is the policy of an incoming president to scatter as widely as possible the limited cabinet posts.

Secretary Mellon is generally believed to be slated for further service if he is willing, and thus far he has failed to indicate any desire to retire.

New Castle Auto Show Will Take Place Next March

March 21, 22 And 23 Are Dates Set By Automobile Dealers For Annual Show

At the recent meeting of the Automobile Dealers association of New Castle the dates decided upon for the New Castle automobile show are March 21, 22 and 23, 1929 according to the statement of Ray Hall secretary of the association.

The dealers association states Mr. Hall has been working on plans for the next automobile show for some time past and from indications at the present time it will be the largest and best show of the kind that the association has produced in the city.

A committee was authorized to ascertain the renting of The Cathedral for the three days which are planned for the show. The display as was the case last year will take place in The Cathedral.

At this same meeting the committee of the dealers association who were listed to see the various civic bodies with regards to their views and action pertaining to the safety drive reported that all of the local civic clubs were ready with committees appointed to meet and form a safety organizations which will start a drive immediately.

The automobile dealers with the civic clubs plan a co-operative movement with the city officials for a greater safety tn traffic and pedestrianism for the coming year.

These various committees will meet in the course of the next few days, elect their officers and start the drive in earnest.

One of the major features in the program for safety which is being launched is that pedestrians will observe the stop lights as do the motorists, thus bringing about quicker movement in traffic in the city streets as well as greater safety.

Senior High School Students Repeat Play Successfully

"Twelfth Night" Is Given In Senior High Auditorium Again Friday

With a larger crowd present and the benefit of the first night's experience back of the players, "Twelfth Night" closed its second and last performance in the Senior High school Friday evening, November 9.

As is usually the case a number of the characters saw different people presenting them, this being one of the methods in which Miss Clara Hartsuff gives her players a varied experience in dramatic work.

The part of Olivia was taken by Mary Felton, that of Viola by Hazel Barrett, that of Maria by Sylvia Martin, that of Sir Toby Belch by Otto Pearsall, that of Sebastian by Edward Smith and that of the Clown by Alice Throop.

While the work of the players on Thursday night was splendid, that of the Friday night leads was no less meritorious and the fact that nearly two casts could learn the lines and deliver them as well as they were, speaks well for the school training.

Immunization Of County School Pupils Under Way

Medical Director Asks For Parental Co-Operation With Doctors

Over 15,000 Pupils Have Been Innoculated During Past Three Years

The toxin anti-toxin treatment against diphtheria is now in progress throughout the schools of the country districts, County Medical Director Dr. H. C. Harper said today. Blank forms are being distributed to the pupils by various principals and teachers of the rural schools, for the purpose of securing the permission of parents for the treatment.

"Over 10,000 children in Lawrence county were immunized last year," Harper continued. "In none of these cases did diphtheria appear wherein the toxin anti-toxin was given in the three necessary innoculations."

The director urges that parents of the children sign the forms which their children will bring and return them to the respective teachers just as quickly as they can. He also wishes to assure them that there is no harm whatsoever in this preventative method against diphtheria, prompted by past experience that it does prevent this disease.

"During the past three years," Dr. Harper stated, "over 15,000 county school children have been given immunization through the three innoculations within a period of six or seven days. In no cases have the children suffered any bad effects and as above stated none has contracted diphtheria."

The state of Pennsylvania furnishes the toxin anti-toxin free of charge. Physicians throughout Lawrence county are co-operating splendidly with the medical director in the administration of the toxin anti-toxin, and it is only hoped that parental co-operation will be the same.

Wisconsin Teachers Retire On Pensions

Over 700 Are Now On Pension Lists; 10,000 Paying Dues

(International News Service)

MADISON Wis., Nov. 10.—Wisconsin has 750 teachers retired on pensions under the state teachers retirement system with 550 of these receiving benefits under the old law enacted in 1911 and 200 under the law of 1921. At present there are 10,000 teachers contributing to the retirement system.

The teachers who retired under the old laws have their choice of taking their payments under the provisions of either fund.

Under the present retirement system every teacher, 25 years old or over, must submit to a five per cent deduction from the salary on every pay day. The money collected is placed in the state treasury in a special fund to the credit of the individual teacher and begins at once to earn interest for the teacher at the rate that is being earned by the fund as a whole. Besides this the state makes a deposit on June 30 of each year to the credit of every senior teacher. This deposit is based on the salary a teacher receives and also on the number of years he has been teaching.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—The General Electric company Friday was granted a temporary injunction to restrain the federal radio commission from putting into effect its general reallocation order of November 11 with regard to the company's Schenectady, N. Y., station, WGY.

George F. Martin, chief justice of the district supreme court, and Associate Justices Charles H. Soldiers Can Still Convert Insurance Into Other Types

Can Secure Policies That Will Afford Greater Protection

"Among the many ex-service men who converted their war-time insurance into peace-time or convertible insurance, as it is better known, into the most expensive forms carrying the highest rate such as endowment policies, and who have found the higher rates in this form of insurance a little burdensome there is a tendency to reduce the amount of insurance carried," Pat J. Dempsey, executive secretary of the Lawrence county chapter of the American Red Cross stated today.

"By carrying either straight life or 20 payment life policies," Mr. Dempsey continued, "they would be enabled to carry greater protection for their dependence. This is especially true where men have married after their return from service and have acquired families since.

"New regulations based on changes made in the laws covering government insurance now permit conversion to the lower premium rates so that a man carrying an endowment policy can now exchange the same for a policy of the same amount, bearing the same date and based on the same age—on any plan of insurance issued by the United States veterans' bureau at a lower rate of premium, except the five-year convertible term policy. The latter is simply an extension of the war-time term insurance and was placed into effect to enable those who were not ready to convert war-time insurance to have the benefit of this protection at the low rates until they were in better financial condition to convert theirs into standard types.

"The time limit in which this exchange can be made is not later than one year from the effective date of this regulation, May 29, 1928, or within five years of the effective date of the policy, whichever is the later.

One other condition is necessary before veterans can convert their insurance into the standard types and that is that they must be in good health and submit to a complete medical examination," said Dempsey in closing.

CHEVROLET

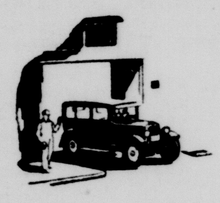
CONSTANT EXPANSION
—to serve Chevrolet owners better

SINCE January 1st more than a million new Chevrolets have been delivered to owners—making the Chevrolet Motor Company, for the second consecutive year, the world's largest builder of automobiles!

This outstanding achievement has been attained not only because of the quality and value of Chevrolet cars—but also because there has been a constant expansion of Chevrolet service facilities.

In order to bring the mammoth resources of the Chevrolet factories to Chevrolet dealers and owners everywhere, there have been erected 26 huge parts warehouses in the principal centers of distribution. This expansion program is continually going on—for four great additional warehouses will be in operation by January first and seven more by the summer of 1929.

Into the service departments of all Chevrolet dealers, Chevrolet has brought special tools and shop equipment—designed under the supervision of Chevrolet engineers. This equipment definitely assures maximum speed and precision and the lowest possible cost in the performance of every service and repair operation—which are charged for on a flat rate basis.



Furthermore, all of these tremendous facilities have been made available to 15,000 authorized service stations manned by skilled mechanics—over 25,000 of whom, have been factory trained to efficiently handle every repair operation on a Chevrolet car. In addition, there are over 4,000 other points where genuine Chevrolet parts may be obtained.

Uniformly efficient, uniformly reliable and within easy reach of everybody everywhere—this great service organization is maintaining at peak efficiency the fine performance for which Chevrolet cars have always been renowned.

We cordially invite you to come in and see how our service department reflects the influence of this great national service program. We know you will be convinced that no group of owners in this community enjoys more definite assurance of continued satisfaction than those who drive Chevrolet cars.

The banquet will be held at noon, as usual, and will be followed by an entertainment.

Members of the reception committee are as follows: C. L. Rose, chairman; J. R. McGuire, R. H. Godley, P. H. Stakelum, G. G. Johnston, I. M. Hofmeister, Stanley Morosky, R. P. Wish, C. C. Rogers, W. J. Caufield, F. E. Flowers, G. M. Weis, J. A. McWilliams and F. W. Rogers.

Senior High Band To Play Selections For Composer

When the Marine Band arrives here for two concerts on Monday, the program will be opened by the Senior High School band. The local band will play a march lead by Mr. Branson in both performances.

Mr. Paton, the high school band leader selected several possible numbers to be played for these concerts. After a discussion by the band members, it was decided by a large majority to play "Marine Corps Institute", a march written by Captain Branson. This is rated as one of the most difficult marches in the band repertoire but the band leader along with the members have been working hard all week to perfect it so that it will meet with the composer's approval. The boys will wear the new flashy uniforms at both performances.

Bessemer School News

On Saturday, November 10, the Bessemer high school football team will play Mercer at Mercer. Last Saturday Bessemer held the New Wilmington team to a 0-0 score.

Using the sample ballots provided by the county commissioners the Bessemer high school held a mock election Tuesday. Hoover received 127 votes, Smith 104, Thomas 5 and Foster 2. The election, using regular sample ballots, is an annual event. It is interesting to note that the school vote, taken before the returns of the election are in, invariably agrees with the choice of Pennsylvania.

Bessemer is celebrating national educational week by having night sessions to which the parents are invited. Wednesday was "visit the school day." Many parents, especially the mothers, responded to the school's invitation by visiting the classroom and observing just what their youngsters were doing in school.

Thursday night a special session of the grade school was held from 7 until 9 o'clock. The community is interested and always takes advantage of the night sessions to keep in touch with what the school is doing. This year, however, even more interest was shown as the fourth, fifth and sixth grades have been departmentalized since school started. H. J. Colton, supervising principal of Bessemer schools, has completely mapped out his program of specialization for the intermediate grades. Miss Pollock teaches the social sciences, Miss Fair reading and literature, Miss Donaldson arithmetic, Mr. Martin music, Miss Ann Brua, English, and Miss Helen Brua teaches penmanship and art and health.

Due to the fact that many of the teachers went home to vote Tuesday evening and the crowded calendar of this week's activities the night session for the high school classes had to be postponed until Tuesday of next week.

Correct this sentence: "Her dinner was so good," said one of the female guests, "I didn't notice how she had the silver arranged."

A Better Way to Heat Your Home

Convert Your Present Heating Plant into an Automatic Installation

The Surface Combustion Gas House Heating Machine is an entirely NEW device which converts your present heating plant into a fully automatic installation, using gas—the perfect fuel.

It is a heating machine so quickly and easily installed there is yet time for you to enjoy its advantages this Winter. Low in first cost, this installation has exclusive new features in economy, safety and reliability.

The Surface Combustion Gas House Heating Machine is entirely different from ordinary gas burners. It is a newly designed self-contained machine which converts your present furnace or boiler into completely automatic, efficient, gas-fired heating installation.

Needs No Attention

It is a better way to heat your home because it is clean, requires no attention from the day it is lighted until it is turned off in the Spring and maintains your home at an even temperature.

There is no novelty in gas heating. In New Castle alone scores of homes and thousands of our customers in other cities are enjoying the comfort and cleanliness of this modern heating method. Many of these installations are of the fully automatic type.

The occupants of these homes give no more thought to their heat than if they lived in an apartment whose heating plant was presided over by a super-efficient, super-conscientious janitor. And, of course, the cleanliness of gas heat is an advantage which only gas heat can give you.

The Surface Combustion Gas House Heating Machine abounds in such ingenious construction and so many practical improvements that many experienced heating engineers have remarked, "Why didn't some one think of it before?"

The installation usually requires less than a morning's time. Every point of the design tends toward combustion efficiency and the economical use of gas. Notice how the flaring metallic baffles are placed so that they divert the burner flame and entrap the heat to prevent heat losses up the chimney. See how the burners are placed low in the furnace to insure maximum use of the heating surface.

There are scores of other important points which you can see and appreciate only from an examination of the device itself.

For instance, the secondary air shut-off, which permits utilization of the stored-up heat when the burners are turned off, thus effecting a great saving in fuel. You will want to know about the safety pilot light, too; a device almost human in its cleverness. And there is a scientific new method of testing every installation to assure maximum burner efficiency.

Low Cost—Economical Too

The ease of installation of the Surface Combustion Gas House Heating Machine has made possible a very low price. Further than that gas heat automatically controlled is not expensive. It is inconceivable to most persons that so much comfort and satisfaction may be enjoyed for so moderate a cost.

Decide now to stop the dreary, dirty grind of furnace tending by installing one of these new outfits. Immediate delivery can be made, and you can be "all set" the first cold snap.

Our deferred payment plan makes it possible for you to install one for a small down payment—little more than the outlay required for an additional supply of fuel to run you during the rest of the heating season.

Fits In Any Furnace

Self-contained and compact, it can be slipped into your heating plant almost as easily as a drawer into a table. Everything is incorporated in this simple machine—even the automatic thermostatic control apparatus. The only other part is the room thermostat which naturally is placed in some convenient place, such as a living room wall.

Cost estimates on heating your home with a Surface Combustion Gas House Heating Machine will be gladly furnished you without obligation. We believe you will find them unusually interesting.

ABE MARTIN On The Tharp Wedding

LET JOY BE UNCONFINED

"Well, she's gone," said Lile Tharp, as he attempted a highland fling, an' his wife, still gurdled up in her party dress, replied, "Yes, an' so's th' very roof over our heads." "Well, anyhow, we'll have some peace, an I kin dig around an' git another home, fer I'm only fifty," retorted Lile Tharp, actin' fer all th' world like a boy jest out o' school. Th' Tharps had jest given ther daughter's hand in marriage, after mortgagin' ever'thing t' th' limit, and while th' mother seemed t' realize that they were now penniless an' without a home t' call ther own, she could not hide th' twinkle o' satisfaction that played about her eyes. Later, both heaved a sigh that could be heard as fer as th' pustoffice. After months an' months o' preparations ther daughter Myrt wuz finally married an' out o' harm's way. An' another florist wuz pullin' himself t'gether, another jazz orchestry had cleaned up, th' sewin' machine wuz quiet, th' yard wuz full o' ice cream tubs, borrowed dishes an' chairs cluttered th' home, oceans o' salad wuz left an' bride's showers wuz things o' th' past. Workmen wuz busy removin th' tarpaulin' runway t' th' gate, a huge bakin' company's truck wuz still mired in th' front yard, while an aunt an' uncle from fer off Iowa stood in th' parlor admirin' th' toasters, cocktail shakers an' sherbet glasses, represantin' th' clean up from sixteen hundred invitations. Th' weddin' wuz almost pagan in its dazzlin' appointments, outrivilin' any event o' like character within th' memory o' th' oldest florist. Th' decorations wuz beautiful an' gorgeous, as wuz ever'thing from blind robin canapes t' toothpicks. Even th' baked mangoes stuffed with chopped liver held ther shape. "Well, did you ever!" wuz on ever'one's lips. Even th' bride's father looked purty good, an' th' mother, too, had thrown off her ole hopeless expression. She'd been a trifle uneasy fer th' past two weeks fer fear somethin' might turn up t' prevent th' weddin'. "I never worried a minute," said th' father, "fer I had a hunch th' weddin' would go through.' Th' groom wuz closeted with his mother fer a long time before walkin under th' big floral horseshoe t' take th' oath, but his step wuz firm, an' he showed no signs o' weakenin'. While th' corn borer has hit him purty hard, he's allus been regarded as a good catch. He's not attached in a business way at th' present time, but hopes t' sell his father's farm fer a landin' field, after which his plans are uncertain. Th' bride has been a familiar figure at th' O. K. rink an' has a wide acquaintance. She's vivacious, willowy, an' of th' peachy type. It has been known fer years that she wuz likely t' wed at any time, but t' whom wuz a conjecture. She has never indulged in any o' th' gainful occupations, but preferred th' peace an' quiet o' her home, where she wuz a dominatin' figure. "We have no fixed plans," remarked th' bride's father, "but one thing's certain—we're goin' t' take a long breathin' spell." An' his wife smiled as she put on an apron preparatory t' resumin' her ole control o' th' home.

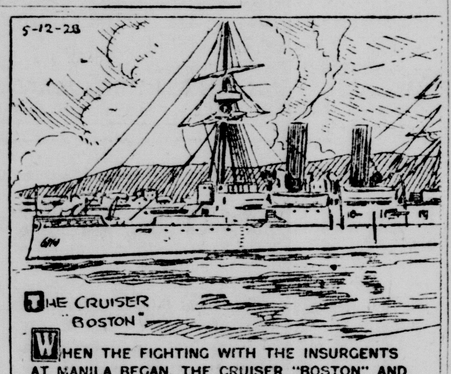
The Philippine Insurrection
The Capture Of Iloilo

A FEW WELL-AIMED SHOTS FROM THE WARSHIPS AND THE ENEMY FLED. SOLDIERS AND SAILORS LANDED AND TOOK POSSESSION OF THE CITY WITHOUT THE LOSS OF A MAN. AFTER CAPTURING ILOILO, THE AMERICANS HAD TO WORK LIKE TROJANS EXTINGUISHING FIRES STARTED BY THE RETREATING INSURGENTS.

THE NEXT MORNING THE INSURGENTS WERE OBSERVED STILL THROWING UP EARTHWORKS, WHEREUPON THE CRUISER "BOSTON" FIRED TWO WARNING SHOTS. THE FILIPINOS DIVED INTO THEIR TRENCHES AND COMMENCED FIRING AT THE AMERICAN VESSELS.

UPON RECEIPT OF ORDERS FROM GENERAL OTIS ON FEB. 8TH, GEN. MILLER ON THE 10TH SENT AN ULTIMATUM TO THE INSURGENTS, WARNING THEM THAT AN ATTACK WOULD BE MADE UPON ILOILO WITHIN 24 HOURS IF THE WORK OF STRENGTHENING THE DEFENSES OF THE CITY WAS NOT DISCONTINUED AT ONCE.



THE CRUISER "BOSTON"

WHEN THE FIGHTING WITH THE INSURGENTS AT MANILA BEGAN, THE CRUISER "BOSTON" AND THE GUNBOAT "PETREL", WITH THREE TRANSPORTS BEARING 3,000 SOLDIERS UNDER GEN. MARCUS MILLER, WERE LYING IN THE HARBOR OF ILOILO, AN IMPORTANT CITY ON THE ISLAND OF PANAY, HELD BY THE FILIPINO REBELS. THE EXPEDITION HAD BEEN LYING OFF ILOILO FOR NEARLY A MONTH AWAITING ORDERS FROM MANILA.

Fighters Are In Good Shape

Filipino Has Stopped His Only Two Opponents Here

ROMEO PACELLI TO BATTLE TONY CEZAR

ONLY 48 hours remain until Johnny Datto, Filipino, of Cleveland, and Al de Rose, Indianapolis, answer the bell in a bout scheduled for 10 rounds at Jolly Bowl Monday night. Datto and de Rose have never met before. Datto stopped his only two opponents here and has a good record. De Rose has fought 100 battles without being stopped and is said to be minus the gruelling earmarks of the ring.

Datto has been training with Frankie Rio and de Rose has been "prepping" at Indianapolis. Their heavy work will end today and tonight de Rose will leave for New Castle. He will work out tomorrow at the Jolly Bowl. Datto will not arrive until later, but will not work out, as 126 pounds is easy for him.

Frankie Rio and Patsy Gallagher, like the main bout, is attracting considerable attention, as the match is what in ring vernacular can be termed a "natural". Lost winter it is claimed that Gallagher won from Rio, something the latter disputes, and Monday night the issue will be settled at 130 pounds in a six-round bout.

Returns to Ring

The return to the ring of Romeo Pacelli will be welcomed by fans. He is scheduled to romp six rounds at 128 pounds with Tony Cezar. Romeo has been training for two weeks at the bowl gymnasium and is reported to be in very good condition.

When the two Browns, Maxie and Steve, clash, the fans will be on edge. Maxie is a big-heavy-fisted blonde who likes to slug. Steve is a colored boy who outpointed Elmo the Mighty here last Monday night. They are scheduled to go six rounds. They are light-heavyweights.

East and West Side fight fans will crowd the place to see the junior lightweights, Johnny Jennings and Johnny Dougherty. Dougherty has fought several times. Jennings is not as experienced as the former sailor, but believes he can win from the West Side boy.

With snow falling today, a setting for the big heaters that have been provided in the enclosed bowl has been furnished and when the fans convene Monday night and the bell rings at 8:15 they will be comfortable.

Al Lippe Loses Midget Wolgast

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—A fighter against $10,000 was a freak election bet that Jimmy Kelly cashed in on Franklin D. Roosevelt's victory over Albert Ottinger for the Governorship of New York. Kelly wagered the money with Al Lippe of Philadelphia, who turned over the contract of Midget Wolgast, flyweight of that city, who is recognized by the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission as the champion. Kelly intends to go before the local Commission in ten days and challenge Izzy Schwartz to a bout for the world's title. Schwartz's six months grace as titleholder will expire in a fortnight.

E. & A. Workers Planning Division Bowling League

First Game To Be Contested On Thursday, November 15

Announcement was made today of the formation of an eight-team bowling league among local employes of the E. & A. division of the Pennsylvania railroad. It is said that arrangements for the use of certain seventh ward alleys have already been made and that the opening game is already scheduled for Thursday evening, November 15 at seven o'clock.

Although the eight teams have not been selected at the present time, it is the expectation of those in charge to bring this matter to completion soon. Enginemen, firemen, engine house employes, car department employes, telegraph operators, signal department employes and others will compose the different squads. Games will be played each Tuesday and Thursday night.

In previous years, it is said, the local division has had bowlers represented in other leagues, but never before has there been such a schedule solely among Pennsylvania employes, like the one being opened soon.

New Castle High Football Team Departs For Greensburg Early Today

EXPECT FINE GAME; SEVERAL CRIPPLED

New Castle high school football team at 9 o'clock this morning departed for Greensburg on a special train over the Pennsylvania railroad lines.

The locals were not in the best of condition for the game today with the strong Greensburg high team. Five of the New Castle regulars, Stillman, McIntosh, Ostrosky, Mooney and Alexander will not see action today unless it is absolutely necessary.

Coach Bridenbaugh was at a loss to know just who to start today. The "shock troops" will have to be thrown in against the Westmoreland county team.

The game was scheduled to start at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The New Castle high school band in their new epic and span uniforms departed for Greensburg on the special. Several hundred fans and students also made the trip to Greensburg by train and auto.

MacMurdo Slated For Varsity Post On Panther Team

Ellwood City Boy Now With Pitt Freshmen, Well Liked By Coach Sutherland

(Special To The News)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 10.—The Pitt freshman football team which meets the Wash-Jeff fresh at Jeannette, Armistice Day held its final workout today. A long signal drill including numerous punt formations marked the final polishing off for the Pitt Cubs.

Coach Gougler of the Panthers will take a powerful eleven down to Jeannette for the battle with the Little Presidents. To date the Pitt first year team has come through undefeated with easy wins over West Virginia frosh, Carnegie Tech plebes and the strong Kiski outfit. The Panther Cubs ran up four touchdowns against the formidable Kiski team which had scored six touchdowns against the Army plebes.

It is no secret that Coach Sutherland of the Pitt varsity regards the Pitt freshman team as the best in the history of first year football teams at Pitt. Jim McMurdo, 200 pound tackle has been the mainstay of the line in every game this season. McMurdo hails from Ellwood City and is destined for a varsity berth next year when Mike Getto of Jeannette graduates.

Army And Notre Dame Game Draws Interest In Eastern Conflicts

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Christian "Red" Cagle, football's dual personality—one man, one team—will see what he can do this afternoon about resuming his galloping or his ghosting or both in connection with the annual football game between an unbeaten Army team and a Notre Dame outfit that is there strictly on business. The boys won't take a beating. Somebody will have to give it to them.

Turning Point

For Notre Dame, the game means the turning point in a season that will go down in the books either as fairly successful or quite terrible. For the Army, it means that the pitcher is going to the well again and the pitcher I'm talking about is the one that might go too often, the idea being that one of these times it may come back full of banana oil. The team that plays Southern Methodist, Harvard, Yale, Notre Dame, Nebraska and Stanford in one and the same season isn't just asking for disaster, it is sending the second footman with an engraved invitation.

For Cagle, the occasion may determine his precise status in a relation to the Thorpes, Hestons, Coys, Gipps and other immortals of the game. It may determine, too, whether the mantle of Grange is to be permanently his, to have and to hold. There are mantles and mantles, of course. This is something one wears not the thing which, in certain well known emergencies, one gets off, anyhow, it will be quite a ball game.

Couldn't Stop Cagle

Harvard couldn't stop Cagle. Yale couldn't even deter him. What a Rockne-coached team, fully cognizant of the young man's capabilities, will be able to do, is the question that will be asked this afternoon and a sell-out crowd of 80,000 will see it answered. The fate of two fighting football teams hangs on this answer.

"Stop Cagle," is Notre Dame's story. It tells everything in two words. For the Irish know that, if they stop Cagle, they stop the Army attack, their contention being based on the proven theory that things equal to the same thing are equal to each other.

They know, too, that the "percentage" rides with them. They have nothing to lose by this game, the Army everything. They have been beaten twice this season and no Rockne outfit ever has lost more than two games in any given year. They lost to the Army last year and no Rockne team ever has blown two in a row to the Soldiers. They have been a West Point nemesis since the start of the series, the record showing nine Notre Dame victories, four defeats and one tie.

But sane comparison tells a different story. It shows the Army to have the better forward line and the greatest ball-running menace of the year; in brief, it shows the Army to be the better football team. The trouble will come in proving it.

The boys won't take a beating. Somebody will have to give it to them.

BEN FRANKLIN HIGH IS WINNER

Plucky Mahoning Junior High Team Puts Up Great Game Friday

Ben Franklin Junior High football team defeated the Mahoningtown Junior High eleven at Franklin field Friday 6 to 0. The only touchdown of the game was scored by the Franklinites in the second quarter when they made a steady march down the field. With the ball on the four yard line Fabian on an off tackle play carried the ball over the line.

Mahoningtown played exceptionally good football against their more experienced opponents and had the ball within scoring distance when they lost the ball on downs. The losers attempted a considerable number of passes which were completed. The passes netted quite a number of first downs for the seventh warders. Honors were about even on first downs scoring with 10 for each team.

In the second quarter Franklin made a steady march down the field on off tackle plays, and double passes which placed the ball four yards away from the goal line where Fabian on an off tackle play tallied the only score of the game.

For the Franklin team the defensive playing of Cooper and the consistent ground gaining of Sisko featured while the whole Mahoningtown team deserves credit for the exhibtion against the Franklinites who were favored to defeat the Seventh warders by a large score.

Score by quarters:

Ben Franklin	0	6	0	0	6

Referee—Brown.
Head Linesman—McIntosh.

LEST WE FORGET — BY FEG MURRAY

The anniversary of the armistice brings to mind the many athletes who gave up their lives in the World War, and coming as it does in football season, we will limit this discussion to the soldiers of the gridiron and pass over Johnny Overton, Tony Wilding, Eddie Grant and others from other sports who made the supreme sacrifice.

It is too bad that a complete record of college football players who were killed or died in service is not available. A fitting memorial to that magnificent body of athletes who gave up their lives to a far greater cause than winning for their alma mater won't be a very fine thing. But where would you put it? Princeton is the spot that first comes to mind, for what college or university in the land gave more freely of her gridiron sons than Old Nassau? Johnny Poe '95; Bleuthenthal, center on Sam White's team (class of 1912, I believe); Hobey Baker, captain in 1914, and greatest of all college hockey stars, are the three most famous Tiger stars to go west for Old Glory. Baker was killed in an avitation accident at Toul, France, the day after Christmas, 1918, while Poe was killed in action with the Black Watch near Loos in 1915. The story is that Poe met his death while rushing forward in an attack, and as he charged low over the ground amid flying bullets and bursting shrapnel he called out his old Princeton signal numbers.

Yale is proud of Alex Wilson, captain of the 1915 football team, and Dartmouth of "Spud" Pishon, that diminutive quarterback of 1908 and 1909, who, like Baker, died in the air service in France. Then there are Dave Henry of Brown, Starr of Harvard, Shull of Chicago, Healy of Columbia, Gard and Noble of Stanford, Turner of Williams, who was posthumously voted the Congressional Medal of Honor; and Curry and Price of Vanderbilt. This list is far from complete.

So give a passing thought to these heroes as you sit in your raccoon coat, well outfitted with hip-flasks, blankets and apples in some stadium this week-end, enjoying a thrilling game of football. Remember that they fought and bled and died for you and yours, so don't forget them in the excitement of the moment over the deeds of the present day Cagles, Humes, Strongs and Williamses.

Captain John J. McEwan, football coach at the University of Oregon, teaches poetry on the side.

You'd think that he, being a disciple of Homer, would schedule a game with the University of Southern California Trojans.

Geneva Gridders End Training For Allegheny Battle

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Nov. 10.—Coaches Flenniken, Schachern and Cullen sent their charges through their ginal workout today in preparation for their game at Reeves stadium Monday.

Coach Merrit's Methodists will be extremely anxious to take over the Covenanters for the eMadville gridders have not defeated the Golden Tornado since 1925 when Tom Davies crew eked out a 12-0 win over the Covenanters at the Allegheny stadium.

The following year saw the Methodists succumbing ta "Bo" McMillin's cohorts by a 15-0 score and last year the Gold and White swamped the Methodists 39-7. Allegheny uncorked a fine passing attack against the Beaver Valley boys last year and they will probably resort a good bit to their mode of attack on Monday. Their offense is much better than that of last year's team so the Covenanters are plainly aware of the fact that the Alleghenians are going to be a hard nut to crack.

Pitt-Wash-Jeff Battle On Today

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 10.—With perfect weather prevailing the stage was set here for the annual classic of a Pitt-Washington-Jefferson football game here this afternoon.

W-J's tie last week with Lafayette after mediocre showing in previous games and the natural rivalry the two teams has keyed up interest in the contest to a high pitch.

Wash-Jeff, the underdog in the rating, rose to almost even terms in betting as a result of presenting their strongest lineup, including three regulars who were out of the Lafayette game with injuries. Two of the returning regulars, Capt. Aschman, center and Jap Douds, tackle, are the backbone of the line, while the other, Robinson, is a star back.

Pitt was without the services of Parkinson, fullback, who has been out three weeks with fractured ribs.

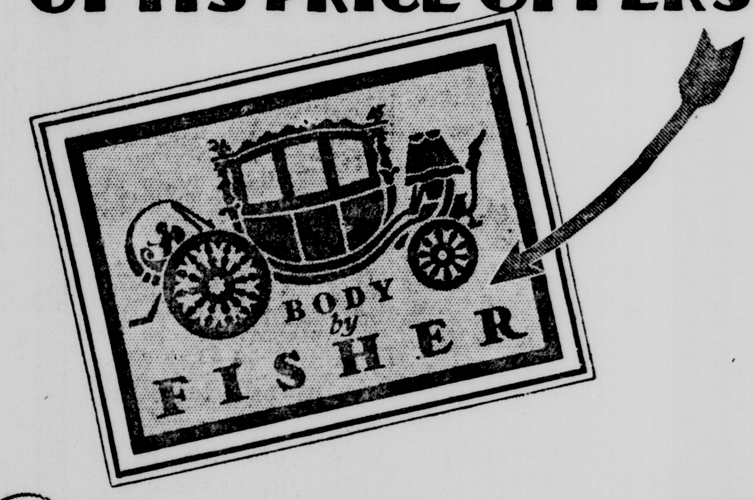
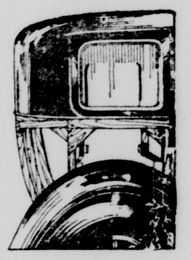
ONLY PONTIAC AMONG ALL SIXES OF ITS PRICE OFFERS



A Successful Six now winning Even Greater Success

Body by Fisher! To motor car owners everywhere the very phrase suggests the newest style, the greatest luxury, the finest construction known to automotive body building. Yet only Pontiac among all sixes of its price offers bodies by Fisher. And in their long, low, smart lines, their deep-seated comfort and durable hardwood and steel construction, you will find the cause of a great share of the tremendous popularity which Pontiac continues to enjoy.

But bodies by Fisher represent only one of the many advantages offered by today's Pontiac Six. A 186-cubic inch engine equipped with a new, more highly perfected carburetor—the AC fuel pump—the cross-flow radiator with thermostatic control—the famous G-M-R cylinder head . . . all these vital engineering advancements are provided by Pontiac and by no other six selling for as little as $745.



In Pontiac-Fisher body the newest style is combined with the finest construction known to the body building industry. Frames are of selected hardwood. Panels are of high-grade steel. Wood and metal are carefully insulated to eliminate all body noises. And glass in windshields, doors and windows is all of finest plate.

2-Door Sedan, $745; Coupe, $745; Sport Roadster, $745; Phaeton, $775; Cabriolet, $795; 4-Door Sedan, $825; Sport Landau Sedan, $875. All prices at factory. Check Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices—they include lowest handling charges. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Foster's Weather Forecast

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10, 1928.—A storm wave of moderate intensity of force will be expected to cross continent during week centering on November 11; cold wave that will be caused by this storm center will be expected to center on 14, be the most extreme of season to date and to carry below normal temperatures a little farther south than usual; moderate precipitation will be expected to be general in east half of continent and in east half of the northwest during this disturbance. East of Rockies cold wave centering on 14 will cause the most unseasonable temperatures of the month; west of Rockies cold waves arriving near 12 and 19 will cause about equal results. Average temperatures will again rise to above normal as center of mild storm wave expected to cross continent during week centering on 18 moves eastward.

During the passage of the majority of storm waves temperatures rise preceding the storm center and fall following the storm center, but this is not a rule without exceptions, as, during the passage of many storm waves, temperatures will remain far above or far below normal and fluctuate very little.

Most precipitation, especially heavy precipitation that covers a considerable area, falls just as a low barometer storm center passes or just after that passage; this does not include thunderstorms or other such local storms; local storms cover a comparatively small area, occur on the outer edge of the low pressure area and are caused as much by the topography of the land as by the predominating storm center.

Although orthodox meteorologists do not acknowledge a difference in the formation of the land cyclone and its big cousin, the ocean hurricane, there is a decided difference in the formation of these two types of storms. The tropical hurricane, which is formed near the equator only, is caused by a direct electro-magnetic inter-planetary contact at a time when the relative positions and movements of planets, earth, sun and moon are such as to cause a strong movement of electro-magnetic force.

The principal relationship of these two types of storms is that they both derive their circular or twisting motion from the movement of force in the electro-magnetic spiral. The tornado or straight blowing wind is caused by the movement of land air currents from an area of high pressure toward an area of low pressure in natrue's effort to equalize; this type of storm does not take its movement from the magnetic spiral, but moves from the descending, clockwise turning area called the area of high barometer pressure, toward the ascending, anti-clockwise turning area, called the area of low barometric pressure, and receives its force from the difference in pressure of these two areas.

There can be little progress made in either the understanding of terrestrial atmospheric conditions or the ability of government meteorologists to forecast these conditions until the Foster thesis or a similar theory of an electro-magnetic universe is accepted.

N. Y. STOCKS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Radio was the stellar performer in a broad and sweeping advance of the high-priced favorites in today's half-session. Powerful speculators and pools have sold practically none of their stock and when buying orders surged in, shortly after the opening, it was impossible to match selling orders against them under 265, an advance of 15 points above Friday's close.

Happy tidings of expanding business in all of the principal lines were brought in in the week-end reviews of business by Dun's, Bradstreet's and the big banking houses. Visions of unexampled prosperity for motor car builders, steel manufacturers, copper producers and oil refiners stimulated country-wide demand for the stocks of the well-known companies.

Radio's swift sky-rocketing from 233 to 270, with a sharp decline to 250 in the last fifteen minutes of trading on Friday naturally diverted market interest to this stock today. The fight between the bulls and bears occupied the bulk of the first half hour, after which this sensational market "actor" subsided into comparative quiet.

Vanadium jumped into the lime-light with a new 5-point advance to 103. In the last 10 points of its spectacular climb the stock has eliminated a good share of the sleeping short interest which has been locked up in the stock for nearly three months. U. S. Steel stayed in the back-ground while awaiting the monthly advance tonnage report, due at noon.

With the ticker trailing the market 26 minutes in the first hour, stock sales in that period topped 1,000,000 shares. The professionals whirled the oil, copper and steel stocks rapidly around in the second hour, but within a narrow range of prices.

The bulls turned their attention to the railroad stocks, the rise in which has been overdue for nearly a month. Baltimore and Ohio forged ahead to 118 in a brilliant movement which had for its powerful backing the prospect of higher dividends for the stock in the near future.

Mexican Seaboard's 8-point jump to 50 was a pleasing commentary on the brighter outlook in Mexico, from the financial and economic standpoint. Barnsdall class A sold actively above 151 and the Pan Americans above 64.

A wave of profit-taking in the second hour wiped out a portion of the new gains in the industrials and specialties. Railroad stocks were held in line by strong investment buying, New York Central advancing in good buying to 179½.

The ticker tape was 45 minutes behind at noon.

contest would be one of the hardest for New Castle so far this season.

An hour before time for the game it was snowing quite steadily here, a clinging wet variety of snow, indicating that conditions would be anything but good for the contest. New Castle's line-up will be shifted considerably due to injuries to players, and there is uncertainty in the ranks of the local followers as to the outcome.

The prowess of the New Castle team is highly respected by Greensburg it is found on arrival here, and a win over New Castle will be regarded as a big achievement for the Greensburg team.

The special train carrying the New Castle contingent will leave immediately after the game.

There are a considerable number of rooters from New Castle here for the game, who came over in autos, but the number is small in comparison with the crowd that followed the team to Washington, recently. Weather conditions are bad for travelling and this probably prevented many making the trip.

New Castle Man Has Poster Of Lincoln Campaign During 1860

Back in 1860 at election time, they didn't fool. At least that's the indication which is gleaned from seeing the poster which was used prior to election day for Lincoln and Johnson. The old campaign poster is the treasured possession of R. E. Rodgers of 730 Croton avenue.

The poster, states Mr. Rodgers, was in the first campaign for Lincoln. It bears the pictures of the two men, Lincoln and Johnson, above which is a spread upon which the American eagle sits.

Below, to the right, is a drawing of New York harbor with ships richly laden leaving. To the left is a railroad train also laden with goods.

Immediately below the pictures of the candidates stands the fair lady of liberty who holds the scales of justice in her hand. On each side of her stand the horns of plenty and they are filled with grain and boxes of food which is an indication of plenty.

The poster seems to have the indication that prosperity is the issue upon which the two men stand. It is a colored affair quite neat in its execution.

Apparently, the poster was used in the campaign for Lincoln and being of the sort that was tacked on fences and buildings during the campaign.

It is about the size of the average farm sale bill of today and is printed on thin white paper. Mr. Rodgers has the poster preserved in a frame on glass.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF NEW YORK MARKET

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—"Hoover Prosperity" and juicy corporation melon-cutting furnished the driving power behind the forward movement of stock prices in frenzied trading on the stock exchange this week.

The whole force of the nation-wide demand for industrial stocks broke like a tidal wave over the market when the overwhelming success of the Hoover party at the polls had been definitely established. Stocks rushed up pell-mell in a frenzy of trading that swept the market off its feet and clogged the machinery to such a degree that the tape lagged fully an hour behind.

Caution Cast Aside

Unable to restrain their enthusiasm, traders who had approached the stock market cautiously last week in the fear of a reaction regardless of the election, threw caution to the winds and climbed aboard the speculative band wagon. The election of Hoover, said the leaders of this, insures four more years of unchanged policies with the assurance of continued expansion and prosperity for the corporations, their workmen and the country at large.

When the word was passed through Wall street that the fellows were again buying the oil stocks and the copper the flood gates o' buying were again opened up. With a rush. Kennecott Copper, Anaconda, Greene Cananea, Cerro De Pasco and other producers of copper metal jumped ahead, scoring the highest prices in their history. Copper has climbed from 13 cents to 16 cents a pound this year and the 17 cent level is already in sight. The Cutten interests bought Sinclair Oil at the highest prices in six years, and the Standard Oil of Jersey topped fifty for the first time since 1922.

General Motors Cuts Melon

General Motors Corporation cut the biggest stock melon in industrial history when stockholders were awarded a 150 per cent distribution in addition to a cash dividend of $2.50. The big corporation will have 42,500,000 shares of stock outstanding after the split up, to pay $3 dividends on which will require $130,000,000 a year. Since General Motors earned $240,000,000 in the first 9 months if this year, it is easy to see that the task it assumes is within its powers, with something to spare for extras from time to time.

"Watch U. S. Steel said Wall street bulls at the week end. There is an unlisted melon of close to $500,000,000 surplus on the boards and this may be the lever-and-fulcrum behind the next furious upward movement of that stock, as well as the whole steel family which have been on exchange for a month or more.

Evangelist Talks On Healing Power

Over 20 Are Relieved Of Ailments At Services On Friday Evening

SPECIAL PROGRAM IS PLANNED FOR TONIGHT

"Down here we believe in the old fashioned religion, in the Blood of Christ, which cleanses in the old fashioned way. We believe that Christ is the only way to salvation," was the way in which Evangelist C. H. Erickson prefaced his sermon at Everybody's tabernacle Friday evening, when about 30 persons sought the altar at the close of the services asknowledging the Son of God as their personal saviour.

"There are many obstacles to faith," the evangelist told the 1,500 people who had gathered to hear his sermon. "But God is not going to be harsh with any man who is seeking truth. When I was a young man, I had an honest doubt myself, but since then, it has all been cleared up."

Divine healing was the subject of the evangelists sermon Friday evening, and he explained how one could believe in healing: how one could believe that Jesus had accomplished healing almost 2,000 years ago, and how the same healing was also being accomplished today.

"Yes, I have always believed in divine healing," Mr. Erickson continued, "but I have not always practiced it. You know, it is one thing to believe something, and it is yet another to practice it.

"The thing that confounded me most was the question: Is sickness a blessing? If it is, then we should keep it with us. I once thought that perhaps God made man sick in order that at the same time man may be made humble. I thought that Paul was sick. I thought that God would not heal him, although through Paul, He healed countless thousands. But finally I was convinced that Paul was healed through the same grace that caused him to heal the others. I knew that he was healed because he worked close to God.

"God wants to heal. He wants you to be whole. He does not like sick people to remain sick. But there are some people who do not believe in the healing power of God and His word. They come to the tabernacle: they see people healed: they see people relieved of almost life-long afflictions: and still they do not believe. Why do they not believe? There is only one answer, and that is because they do not believe the Word of God. That is why they do not believe in divine healing.

"But healing is true: if for no other reason but because God says so. There are some who claim that healing, if true, would bring everlasting life. We know that is false, for there is a time set for every man. All of us have to die some time. Even healing will not last for ever. God did not intend it to last for ever. There is an appointed time to die, but I say to you, why die before your time?

"It pleases me to know that so many people believe in divine healing. They believe because they see the benefit of spiritual healing. They can seen the good work that is done by the word of God. And yet there are people who say that it comes about by the machinations of the devil. That is not so, for the devil can do nothing that is also done by the blood of Christ.

"God is doing it. You can see it. Healing is merely coming to God: merely believing in God. God answers prayers today. If you pray, if you pray to be healed, God will hear it. I preach to those who believe in the word, and not to those who do not.

"Some people believe that the blessings of God are only spiritual, but that too is not so. God's blessings are also temporal. God will meet local and personal needs as well as spiritual needs. As He multiplied the bread almost 2,000 years ago, so he woll take care of you now.

"I have never known anyone to suffer who has given life to God. If I can get men and women to pray, then I shall feel that my work in New Castle has been well done. And people, God is there! God hears that prayer. Won't you confess all to God?"

At the close of the service, almost 30 people answered the call to the altar. Following the altar call, the evangelist layed his hands on over 20 people, praying that their ailments might disappear.

Saturday evening at the tabernacle will be music night, and a special program has been prepared for the people of New Castle and Lawrence county. Sunday afternoon, Mr. Erickson will preach on the Holy Spirit. His Sunday evening sermon has not yet been announced. Monday there will be no services at the tabernacle, but Tuesday evening, Mr. Erickson will again preach on Divine Healing.

Governor Smith Is Offered Many Fine Positions

Defeated Presidential Candidate Finds Business World Wants Him

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Governor Alfred E. Smith, defeated candidate for president, need not advertise for a job when he retires from the gubernatorial chair on January 1.

New York firms are vieing with each other in offers of situations to the retiring Democratic leader. The salaries offered are well up in five figures and range from $50,000 to $150,000.

While some of these offers are interpreted as being mostly for the publicity value attached to mention the firm's name the majority of the concerns insist they are in earnest.

A number of corporations have declared:

"Governor Smith can name his own salary if he will join us."

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

I don't wish you any hard luck today but I hope some one of that hundred or more of those attractive little high school girls grabbed you off for a poppy today. They always get me and each year it seems I fall victim more easily. Whether the girls get more attractive or my appreciation is improving with age I don't know, but I expect ten years from now it will be just like taking apples out of a basket.

Today I wouldn't say that they deliberately laid for me, but I do know that a pair of the witches met me as I stepped out of the door. Now a fellow's resistance is weak that early in the morning and they pounced on me like an automobile salesman on a newly rich oil driller.

They didn't even ask me if I wanted to buy, they just walked over and said "you ought to have a poppy." Who could resist that, from a pair of young sprites that looked like cameos or enlarged watch charms?

One wasn't enough they said, I really should have two, and believe it or not, both of them sold me one. But that pair could sell sewing machines to the cannibals on the South Sea Isles or ear muffs to the Liberian natives.

It's Poppy Day folks, and the weather is enough of a handicap without your sales resistance. Don't say no, say sure, and dig down for a piece of change. And change today is anything above a quarter. A dime doesn't give the Poppy Day committee much profit. The poppies are hand made by disabled veterans. Dig brothers, dig, dig with glee, dig for the Poppy Girls the same as me."

As this is being written the outlook for that trip to Greensburg is rather snowy looking. And nothing short of a hurricane is to stop it as far as I am concerned for my gang is going along. The gang consists of two thirteen year old chaps who are ready to go no matter the weather.

This snow storm today looks like a stage storm. The snow is falling as though it were just out of bed and too lazy to hurry. It's the first real storm of the winter and perhaps that accounts for the apparent lethargy.

Hope you got up to the high school last night to see the closing night of "Twelfth Night." Some of the characters were changed and should get some mention today, but other duties prevented the engineer from being present.

Have Pep Meeting At Senior High

One of the most peppy "pep meetings" of the year was held by the students of the senior high school Friday in preparation for the game today with Greensburg high. During the meeting two new songs were practiced along with numberable new cheers which will be used in today's game.

During the meeting two short speeches were made by Isabel Craig and Dr. Sergeant a former student of the high school. The meeting was in charge of Sherwood Johns.

CORRECTION

Due to a typographical error in last Thursday's advertisement of the New Castle Dry Goods Co., All Wool blankets were quoted at $5.85 per pair. This price should have read $5.95 per pair.

The above blankets were sold Friday, one day only, at the price originally stated in the advertisement, but effective today the corrected price of $5.95 will be in force.

The meek may inherit the earth, but the rent they now pay would indicate that they are buying it on the installment plan.

Chicago Gangsters Use Cruel Method Of Torturing Victims

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—That "more humane" means than the sawed-off shotgun and machine gun are now being used by gangland to dispose of racketeer rivals was indicated Friday by Edward "Spoke" O'Donnell, berr baron, whose brother, "Tommy" went blind overnight.

The latest vogue is that of the Borgias—an insidious but non-fatal poison, according to Tommy. It merely makes you blind.

"I don't know where Tommy got it," said his brother, "but I think they put it in his milk by slipping up on the back porch and switching milk bottles. Tommy, you know, is on a milk diet.

"He was all right when he went to bed, but he woke up stone blind."

Tommy was rushed to Mayo Brothers' hospital in Rochester after local physicians had failed to help him.

From the Mayo clinic came the report that the patient's condition was satisfactory and that there was little danger of permanent blindness.

Buying On Credit Means Paying When Due

Today Is the Tenth

NATIONAL RETAIL CREDIT ASSOCIATION — CHARACTER

Build yourself a reputation; build a good one. Cash customers are welcomed by all merchants, but those who have charge accounts leave a permanent record of friendship.

Charge accounts should be settled in full by the month following purchases.

Get the habit and always pay in full by the 10th, it builds for you a splendid reputation, a record of which is known by all who extend credit.

Those who are well-to-do and are careless in their settlements, are looked upon with less esteem by credit men.

Yet the clerk on a moderate salary who pays his open account by the 10th, or his instalment account when it is due, enjoys the highest regard of the credit man and the personal interest of the merchant.
